TRIAL OF BEATTIE PROVING EVENTFUL

PROSEGUTION'S STRONG CARD

Beattie Excited and Nervous, Insisted on Whispering to Counsel—His Cheerfulness Gone—Takes A Serious Turn

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Aug. 26.—Considerable progress was made today by the prosecution in the case of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who is on trial for his life charged with the murder of his young wife at a lonely spot on the Midlothian turnpike last month.

A number of important witnesses, including one of the detectives, who has been prominent in the case from the beginning and several boys, the prosecution's strong cards were heard. Just before adjournment of the court, a few minutes before 5 o'clock this afternoon, an application by Beattie's counsel was granted by Judge Watson that accused man be permitted to go to Richmond so that the defense might have "a conference over Sunday and save time," in preparing the cross-examination for the re-convening of court.

There were many tense moments for the prisoner as the prosecution, through the testimony of Detective L. L. Scherer particularly uncovered fragments of conversation which he is alleged to have had with Beattie concerning Beulah Binford, the girl in the case. Plainly evident was the hand of the prosecution today in endeavoring to show the underlying motive for the murder, the fear of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., that his father might learn the resumption of relations with the Binford girl and the alleged physical ailment of Beattie at the time of the murder. The court, in fact, discerned the intention of the prosecution to unfold this part of the mystery, asked permission from the lawyers of both sides to defer the discussion of this point on the stand until another occasion when other witnesses including Dr. Mann, whose information in this connection was stricken out four days ago, might be recalled.

The commonwealth drew tight the lines of circumstantial evidence when it brought to the stand consecutively a half dozen youths, who were returning from a dance on the night of the murder and stopped at the spectacle of the stationary car, the man working on the hood and the woman standing on the running board. One of the boys, W. B. Sydnor, identified the Beattie car, brought to the court house for a first inspection by the jury, as the identical one both as to make and fittings that he and his companions spied that night. Slydnor was on the stand twice, but it was not until the second time, which was after the jury inspection, that the prosecution asked him whether or not the doors on the car he saw were detached from the machine. He remembered exactly that they were, also identifying its khaki-colored hood. The defense attempted by a series of sharp questions to indicate that Sydnor having made no reference to the doors in his morning testimony was inspired during the luncheon hour to emphasize that point as to the crowning feature of his identification only after the jury had examined the Beattie car and noticed the conspicuous absence of both doors. The defense insinuated that the prosecutor had called Sydnor's attention to the doors but the boy said he had remarked on them before.

All six boys told the same story of the woman on the running board and fixed the hour of their passage as almost coincident with the hour of the murder and the prosecution through Detective Scherer's testimony later in the day added to this trend of proof the claim that Beattie's wife was not shot while seated beside him, as the prisoner avers but while standing in the road.

Close upon this was Detective Scherer's narrative of Beattie's inconsistent and varying conversations with him in endeavoring to explain the presence of the pool of blood in the road. Detective Scherer's testimony laid the foundations for the future contention of the prosecution that Beattie shot his wife while standing either on the running board or in the roadway and that the pool of blood did not ooze through the foot boards or lower part of the machine, but resulted from Mrs. Beattie's fall when shot near the car.

Besides pointing to the cumulative testimony of the boys as to the presence of Beattie and his wife on the secluded road the prosecution through F. B. Adams, another boy, scored a point when the youth told of seeing a man alone besides a machine similar to the Beattie car on the self-same road three hours before the murder is supposed to have happened. Adams' tstimony bore out the charges of the prosecution that Beattie could have brought the shot gun obtained from Paul Beattie to the place where a few hours later he conducted his ill-fated wife.

The commonwealth let it be known outside the court room too, that it had discovered a witness, a negro

TWENTY-SIX DEAD SIXTY ARE INJURED

Fearful Crush in Maving Picture Show When Film Exploded.

SCENES WERE INDESCRIBABLE

Shout of "Fire" Responsible for Fearful Results of Minor Accident—Majority of Audience Women and Children

Canonsburg, Pa, Aug. 26.—Twenty-six persons were killed and over sixty were injured tonight when a moving picture film exploded in the Canonsburg opera house.

Immediately following the flash of the film, some persons shouted "Fire!" There was a rush for the exit and in a moment there was a writhing, screaming mass of humanity, ten feet high in the narrow stairway leading to the entrance of the theatre.

Most of the dead were smothered. A majority of the audience was composed of women and children. In the fierce rush for the exit, they were thrown from their feet and trampled. Others were thrown upon them and these at the bottom of the human pile were suffocated.

When two volunteer fire departments reached the theatre the sight staggered them. Those of the audience who had escaped from th building and other spectators drawn to the scene, were rushing about the front of the building. No person, it seemed, was making any effoirt to aid the struggling mass within the theatre.

The firemen pushed into the building and practically threw persons into the street.

As they regained their feet, they ran shrieking in terror about the streets. As firemen neared the bottom of the pile they began to bring out the unconscious forms of the injured and later came the dead.

The dead were laid in a row along the sidewalk. Relatives fought and struggled to break past the guards and reach the victims.

Within a few moments after the film flashed and the panic started the fire whistles were blown. Practically the entire population of the town responded and packed in narrow Pike street from which the fatal theatre entrance led. All of them were apparently terror-stricken and could give little aid. The only cool persons were firemen and several members of the police force.

John McCullough, operator of the moving picture machine, had just thrown down the subject of the next series of pictures on the screen, entitled "A Little Girl Shall Lead Them," when the film exploded and the asbestos cabinet was filled with flames. For several moments the audience, numbering about 1,500, was unaware of the accident. The operator heroically fought down the flames and succeeded in extinguishing them.

Then with hands burned and almost suffocated, he opened the door of the little box and staggered out. With the opening of the door, a dense cloud of smoke poured into the auditorium.

At this moment some person yelled "Fire!" The spectators turned in their seats, saw the smoke, jumped to their feet and then started the awful rush for the lone doorway, leading to the narrow, eight-foot stairway. At the stairway they collided and jammed into probably 200 persons who were awaiting the end of the performance to take the places of those who had seen the show. Immediatly the narrow stairway was packed and jammed ten feet high with the dead and dying.

Late tonight the firemen were reinforced by citizens and the crowd driven far back from the scene. The bodies were then taken to an improvised morgue.

Only a few of the injured were taken to hospitals. Most of them sustained cuts and bruises but not of a serious nature.

In the midst of the excitement an unknown woman threw her infant child from a side window of the theatre 50 feet from the ground. J. W. Reese caught the infant in his arms and placed it in charge of a woman at a nearby fruit store. Up to late tonight the child had not been claimed.

When the dead body of Mrs. Harry Kelly was found she was clasping tight to her breast her five-year-old son. The lad had died from suffocation, but there was not a bruise of scratch on him.

The list of the dead probably would have been greater but for the heroism of Miss Mary Craig, pianist at the theatre. When the cries of "fire" sounded, and the rush to safety started, Miss Craig began playing a slow march. Over and over she played the selection, never faltering and many in the crowd caught the swing of the music, and assisted in holding back the crowd. When the audience had swept from the building, Miss Craig left, uninjured.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—Frankie Conley, of Kenosha, Wis., knocked out Patsy Kline, of Newark, N. J., in the ten round of what was scheduled to have been a 20-round fight before the Pacific Athletic Club, at Vernon, late today. They fought at 122 pounds.

USUAL DEATH TOLL MARK AUTO RACES

Dave Buck, Veteran Racer, and Mechanician Were Victims at Elgin.

CRASH OF SEATS HURT THIRTY

Thousand Thrown to Ground and Four Persons Sustained Broken Legs—Len Zengel Won Driving National

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 26.—The 305-mile road race today won by Len Zengel in a National with Harry Grant second and Hugh Hughes third, was not accomplished without its toll of death and injuries.

Dave Buck, the veteran Chicago automobile racer, and his mechanician were killed as the result of an accident to his Pope-Hartford. Buck had his neck broken, but lived until tonight. Sam Jacobs, the mechanician, died instantly, his neck being broken. Buck was within eleven laps of the finish going 64 miles an hour when his right forward wheel threw a tire. The machine turned a complete somersault.

Another accident in which 30 persons were injured mostly slightly, occurred shortly after 11 o'clock, while the first lap of the race was on, several sections of the insecurely built curcus seats giving way. A thousand or more persons were precipitated to the ground.

When the stringers by which the seats were supported gave way, the boards spread out like a pack of cards and the spectators were shunted into a huddle at the bottom Four sustained broken legs, among them a daughter of Senator Lorimer, but the others escaped with cuts and bruises. From time to time during the remainder of the day warnings were shouted through the megaphones to the remaining spectators not to jump to their in moments of excitement. Many left the grounds after the accident.

The ten cars on the course at the time of the accident were stopped as soon as thy reached the repair pit, but a new start soon was made.

Ralph Mulford, whose Lozier was the last away and who won the race last year, set a terrific pace at once. For fifty-nine miles he drove at 69 miles an hour, leading the field by a good six minutes. On the next lap, however, he went out of the race with a burnt connecting rod bearing.

This placed Len Zengel in first position, with Harry Grant two minutes behind him. It was in this relation that they finished, although Grant lost two minutes when he stopped to change the tires. Zengel made up two stops, both for gasoline and oil. Hugh Hughes, the Mercer driver, who won the Kane county cup yesterday, ran another consistent race, finishing third. He stopped but once for gasoline, and was closely pressing Grant for second place at the finish.

He lost by eleven seconds. Zengel's time averaged for the race four miles an hour faster than that set by Mulford last year. His average was 66.45 miles per hour. Mulford secured the prize for the fastest lap, covering the eight and one-half miles in seven minutes, fourteen seconds

Ralph DePalma and Spencer Wishart, Simplex drivers, went out of the race early, as did Aitken.

THE RETURN OF TOGO.

CAPTAIN OF SLOCUMB PAROLED

Master of Steamer That Burned at Hell Gate With Loss of 1,000 Lives, Finally Released From Sing Sing.

New York, Aug. 26.—Capt. William H. Van Schaick, who was commander of the excursion steamer General Slocum when it burned in Hell Gate June 15, 1904, with a loss of a thousand lives, was paroled by the United States government today and returned to his home in this city tonight from Sing Sing prison.

It was a surprise to his wife and family and to the captain himself. The old man, now 72 years of age, was almost overcome when Warden John S. Kennedy, of Sing Sing, told him today that parole papers had arrived from Attorney General Wickersham.

Following the historical catastrophe, the captain of the Slocum was made a Federal prisoner on a charge of criminal neglect of duty for the failure to have provided worthy fire protection and life preservers on the steamer.

At the time of Capt. Van Schaick's conviction, there was considerable popular sympathy with him because all the punishment for the terrible accident fell on his shoulders. Even the families of the victims came to feel the seeming injustice of his bearing the burden alone and many of them signed a petition for the captain's pardon, which was sent to Washington.

SHOCKING STORY OF CRIME

Booneville, Ind., Lad Makes Further Confession, Telling Gruesome Story of Murder of Father, Mother and Brother.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 26.—William Lee, 22 years of age, confessed late today that he murdered his father, Richard Lee; his mother and a younger brother, Clarence, and that then he set fire to the house in the hope of concealing the crime which was committed at Boonville, early Thursday morning.

In verbal and written statements to Sheriff Davis in the jail here, Lee said his motive was anger because his parents would not consent to his marriage with Mina Taylor, of Newburg, which he had planned for Thursday evening, and would not give him money with which to set up housekeeping.

When the confession was made public, officers started with Lee in an automobile for the State reformatory at Jeffersonville, to prevent possible violence here.

Lee made a statement that he had killed his father in self-defense with an axe after the father had murdered his wife and younger son, but Sheriff Davis all of today pressed the restless prisoner for "the true story", and this afternoon Lee, asking for pen and ink, wrote a haltingly worded confession and afterward pieced together a description of the horrible butchery in the three-room cottage at Boonville.

Lee said he went Wednesday night to Newburg, to call on his fiancee. They talked over the arrangements for their wedding. He had had $100 in the bank, but had spent it, and he knew his parents had $50 in the house. He returned home late at night and his mother reprimanded him, he said. He told her he was determined to be married the following day and she answered that he should not, that he must stay at home.

Going to his own room, Lee said, he "brooded until he was out of his mind." Suddenly he rushed into the room where his father, mother and brother slept.

"I grabbed an axe by the door," he said, "and struck for my father, but hit my mother. My brother raised up and I struck him. Then my father, who had been outside, ran in and started to grab me by the throat. I hit him and he fell. I was scared so bad I didn't know what I was doing. What scared me was that my father had threatened my life and I was angry at what my mother had said."

Lee said he lighted a match to see what he had done and overcome at the sight, dropped the flaming stick on the bed where his mother's body lay.

"The flames flashed up and blinded me," he went on, "and I jumped into my room, put on my trousers and ran to alarm the neighbors. I would not have done this thing for anything if I had had any sense at all."

The fire at the Lee house was put out before the bodies, the skull of each crushed, had been more than scorched and William Lee stolidly helped carry them out to the lawn, insisting that he did not know how they came to their death.

Lee, who is almost illiterate, has been an idler since boyhood, according to testimony at the coroner's inquest, which closed today. His father, a plasterer, appeared to fear him and supplied him with money, even giving him a fourth of the proceeds of the sale of some property recently.

Evidence produced today refuted Lee's statement that he rushed from the house immediately after he had started a fire. A basin, stained with blood, in which he had washed his hands, was found. Long gray hairs, supposedly his mather's, clung to the sides of it.

Hidden behind a door was a basket filled with dishes, knives and forks and kitchen utensils, which it is believed he had packed with the idea that he would escape the consequences of the murder and soon have his own home. The lives of his father and brother were insured for $700 and this would have come to him on their death and that of his mother.

HURLED WOMAN INTO LAKE

Angered Because Girl Refused to Marry Him, Chicago Man Threw Sweetheart From Steamer Puritan Into Lake

Holland, Mich., Aug. 26.—Angered, he said, because Grace Lyons, of Chicago, his sweeheart, broke her promise of marriage, Walter Hopper, of Chicago and Philadelphia, attacked her on board the steamer Puritan, in midlake tonight, and tossed her overboard. Her body has not been recovered.

The steamer was about 40 miles from Holland when the woman was thrown overboard. News of the murder was flashed here by wireless and officers were waiting for Hopper when the boat reached the dock. Several people witnessed his deed and he immediately made a full confession.

According to Hopper, the couple had been living together for a short time as man and wife and were to have been married in a few weeks. Learning that Miss Lyons was laving Chicago on the Puritan today Hopper caught the boat and accosted her shortly afterwards. She claimed he had been drinking. A quarrel followed and then, Hopper claims, she declared the marriage would not take place.

They were seated on a box of freight on the lower deck. Suddenly Hopper grabbed her in his arms, rushed to the side of the steamer and dropped her overboard. As he was taken in custody, boats were lowered, but it is believed that the body was drawn down by the suction of the wheel.

Hopper is 31 years of age and Miss Lyons was 26. The prisoner will be arraigned here on a murder charge Monday.

FIRE AT ROCKY MOUNT

Sash and Blind Factory Destroyed, Entailing A Loss of $45,000

(By Long Distance Telephone)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Aug. 26.—The plant of the Rocky Mount Sash & Blind Co., covering an area of three acres was totally destroyed by fire which originated from an unknown source in the plaining mill department at 11 o'clock tonight. The loss, including large stock on hand just at this time, is estimated at $45,000 with $12,000 insurance. Several workmen at the plant personally lost tools valued at $200 each. The fieremen responded to the alarm, working valiantly to save adjoining property, several of them having been overcome by the intense heat. The office building was saved. The stock was valued at $20,000 and the plant at $25,000. It is not known yet whether the factory will be rebuilt. The plant employed 60 men.

STEAMER IN COLLISION

Struck Float of Cars in New York Harbor—Passengers Excited

New York, Aug. 26.—The steamer North Star, of the Maine Steamship Company, bound for Portland, Maine, with 200 passengers, collided with a float of freight cars in the East river tonight, and was seriously damaged. Her starboard plates were so badly bent that water poured into the vessel rapidly but after the closing of the water tight bulkhead the steamer was gotten safely back to her pier and disembarked her excited passengers. The vessel will have to be dry docked for repairs.

TAFT PAVING WAY FOR THE CAMPAIGN

SINGLED OUT THE LEADERS

Regards the Proposed Revision of Tariff as Injudicious and Dangerous to Business—Fires Telling Shot.

Hamilton, Mass., Aug. 26.—President Taft began the Presidential campaign of 1912 here today, his friends believe. In a speech that breathed defiance, he scored the "insurgent" members of the Republican party in Congioss and the Democrats who combined to revise several schedules of the present tariff at the special session of Congress, just closed.

He singled out Senator LaFolleite, of Wisconsin, Speaker Clark and Chairman Underwood, of the House Ways and Means Committee, as leaders of the attempted revision. He indicated that he regarded the proposed revision as injudicious and dangerous to business, but made it plain that if the tariff board in December reports that downward revision of the cotton and wool schedules should be made, he would recommend it.

Standing on the board terrace of Congressman A. P. Gardner's farm with Senator Lodge and other Massachusetts Republican leaders the President addressed 500 members of the Essex County Republican Club. Their cheers were loud and long.

"The extra session of Congress was called for the purpose of confirming the Canadian reciprocity treaty, which it did by a support made up of votes from both parties. I have no doubt Massachusetts, by both parties would confirm its adoption.

"Our Democratic friends, however, were not content to allow the session to pass with the accomplishment of the purpose for which it was called. They assisted—most of them—in the passage of the reciprocity bill, because they believed in its usefulness, and in so doing they united with the Republican support and did not 'play politics' in its passage.

"However, having pursued a purely statesmanlike course with reference to reciprocity, they did 'play politics' of the most irresponsible character in respect to three tariff bills, which by uniting with certain Republicans in the Senate, they were able to pass and present to the executive for his signature.

"I recognize the general demand throughout the country for a reduction of duties so far as that reduction can be made consistent with the maintenance of a measure of protection that shall enable the industries of the country to live.

"The time of the Chinese wall and duties exceeding the difference between the cost of production here and the cost of production abroad has passed, and we of the Republican are under an obligation as soon as opportunity comes to advocate and carry through a revision of the tariff which shall meet the present popular demand and to which we are really pledged.

"Therefore, when the tariff board shall make its report in December on wool and cotton, I expect to submit to Congress recommendations based on the report for a revision of both schedules. I have already expressed my opinion that the woolen schedule is too high; that it has prevailed for so many years that it ought to be revised, and is the subject of complaint, not only to consumers, but also by those who are engaged in the industries affected. So far as I can help it, however, no such revision will take place unless it is made with a full knowledge of the facts as found by an impartial investigation.

"The public will have ample time calmly to consider and decide whether they desire to put into power gentlemen leading a party who, while professing a wish for facts and information so as to make tariff legislation as just as possible, no sooner have the opportunity than they adopt measures with the old ignorance of the facts, with the same political motives, and with the same indifference to the exact operation of the duties imposed, as they themselves so severely criticised in others responsible for previous tariff legislation."

NORFOLK POLITICAL TANGLE

Investigation Into "Fusionism" Is Still In Progress.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 26.—The subcommittee from the Democratic State Committee investigating "fusionism" between Democrats and Republicans in Norfolk county, spent another day in hearing affirmative testimony offered by the "Straightout" Democratic side which announced that it could not conclude its case in chief until Tuesday night. Much testimony was introduced in an effort to show that one faction of the Democratic party fuses with the Republicans with the charge made that Republicans are thereby dominating the Democratic party machinery in the county. The defense will begin its evidence next week and th investigation may be ended within less than ten days.

TRAIN WRECKED AND 37 KILLED

tal injuries. The number of injured will reach sixty.

Owing to the fact that the derailed dining car in going into the ditch east of the trestle had brought down several tlegraph poles with a score of wires, telegraphic service was broken and will not be restored until tomorrow. Aid had to be summoned by telephone.

Coroner D. A. Eisline, of Shortsville, took charge of the work at the wreck assisted by Coroners Armstrong and Flint, of Geneva. Coroner Armstrong was assigned particularly tc investigate the legal aspect of the disaster and after a preliminary examination of the scene he said: "It looks to me as though the track was bad and there was probably a broken rail. It looks as if the first truck of the first car that was derailed left the rails about six feet from the west end of the bridge. We will hold no inquest until we identify all of the bodies."

Late tonight while the wrecking crews were trying to remove part of the wreckage the day coach that stood on end fell into the gully, adding to the debris at the bottom under which it is possible a few more bodies may be concealed.

A harrowing aftermath of the wreck is the scantiness of means of identification of the victims. Rescuers in their haste to remove clothing and effects from the victims neglected to keep the various articles near the bodies and many of the dead were to be found laid out at the morgue where carless visitors mixed up garments and identification things. The breaking down of the telegraph service was confusing because of the inability of those who are safe to send news to anxious relatives. It probably will be days before the full list of dead is made up. The features of some are so badly disfigured that identification in many cases will be difficult.

A pathetic sight was witnessed in the Manchester station tonight when the hats of the men in blue with their gold braid, and the more pretentious headgear of the sons of veterans were piled up with baggage, bloody garments, umbrellas and other personal effects, most of which are the property of the dead.

The wreck train was in charge of Conductor James Hillock, of Geneva, with Engineers Bowman and Callan, on the engines. Conductor Hillock had just stepped from the dining car tc the next car, when the dining car left the track. He pulled the signal for brakes and both engineers responded instantly. Engineer Bowman, of the second engine, was leaning from his cab window, and as he turned on the brakes he looked backward to learn of the trouble and saw the cars toppling off the bridge.

Passengers in the cars which remained on the track gave prompt assistance. Appeals for doctors and nurses were sent to the nearby places and special relief trains were run from both east and west. So great was the number of injured that there was work for all.

A number of persons had miraculous escapes. One woman was all that remained alive from a family of five. Two men jumped through a window and escaped with slight cuts. Two theories for the cause of the wreck have been advanced by railroad men. One is that it was caused by a broken rail or the spreading of the rails.

The road was blocked for several hours and it was necessary to send the westbound trains over the New York Central tracks via Lyons.

Following is a list of the dead at the Shortsville morgue: T. C. Madden, Trenton, N. J.; E. Pagbun, veteran, Brooklyn; A. M. Hunsicker, Vineland, Ont.; Charles Hicks, Newark, N. J.; R. S. Uncle, Southfield N. J.; Mrs. R. S. Uncle, Southfield, N. J.; Mrs. A. E. Zudick, Buffalo; Helen Pownell, address unknown; C. F. Johnson, or Dr. Johnson, Philadelphia or Cleveland; Mrs. C. P. Johnson; Joseph Hickey, address unknown. The remainder of the dead were unidentified.

The dead at Rochester: D. M. Belt, veteran, Los Angeles, Cal.; Henry Becker, brakeman.

Among the injured who were taken to Rochester were Rev. and Mrs. Whitley, an aged couple, of Roydton Va.

ELY MINE DISASTER

Further Particulars of Fire in Nevada Mine on Thursday

Ely, Nevada, Aug. 24.—Of ten men who were working at the 1,400-foot level of the new five compartment shaft of the Giroux Consolidated Mines when it caught fire last night, six are dead and four lie at the point of death after passing through the flames to reach the surface. The dead include: Daniel D. Rea, secretary of the local miners' union, and T. J. Gilmore, a shaft boss.

The men on the 1,400-foot level heard the noise which they thought was caused by an explosion. They looked up and saw the shaft in flames. At once they boarded the cage and started for the surface, but encountered the flames at the 1,200-foot level and stopped. John Wilhelmy, one of those who left the cage, started to walk through the 1,200-foot level to the old Alpha shaft, 700 feet away, through which they hoped to climb out of the mine.

The others in the cage gave the signal to hoist when the car started through the blazing shaft. One was dead when the top was reached and the other four were taken to a nospital. The work of rescuing the five men remaining in the shaft was then attempted through the Alpha shaft.

At the 700-foot level Wilhemly was found dead; Gilmore's body was found at the 100-foot level, face downward at the bulkhead. Thomas Odolovitch lay dead, but Edward Walsh and John A. Nulty were not found and are still in the burning mine.

This is the same mine in which three and a half years ago two men were killed and four others entombed for forty-six days on the thousand-foot level of the Alpha shaft.

The new shaft is one of the largest and deepest in the district and cost over a quarter of a million dollars. Every effort is being made to extinguish the flames which are still burning.

HARRIMAN LINES INVILVED.

Shop Men Considering Strike—Lovett is Appealed to.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—J. W. Kline, international president of the Blacksmiths' Union, today sent a telegram to R. S. Lovett, president of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroads, in New York, asking for an immediate conference with a view of bringing about a settlement of the labor dispute which threatens a strike of the 25,000 shop men employed by the Harriman lines.

The message sent by President Kline read as follows:

"As Mr. Kruttschnitt has left for the West, thereby making it impossible to meet him, and as the conditions are extremely serious in the mechanical department, and the men on the verge of a strike on the Harriman lines, which we are trying to avoid, I, therefore, request that you meet the International officers of the crafts involved in an effort to bring about an amicable adjustment of the trouble. Please wire J. W. Kline, International president, Chicago."

"Everything now depends on Mr. Lovett," said President Kline. "Mr. Knuttschnitt has said that he receives his orders from the board of directors in New York, so I am through with Mr. Kruttschnitt. The whole matter now is up to Mr. Lovett and the board of directors. Meanwhile, our men out West are boiling hot and want to walk out at once. I have wired them to wait until I see what President Lovett intends to do."

THE RURAL PHONE ADVANCES.

Extension of Service as Reflected in Equipment Supplies.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 26.—Current reports received by electrical supply houses and telephone companies in Atlanta and elsewhere, indicate that the rural telephone is increasing in popularity with a speed comparable only to the universal conquests of good roads and the progressiveness underlying both improvements spring from the same source.

A gratifying feature is that Georgia is gradually becoming one of the banner States in the South where the rural phone is concerned. The counties in which the germ is already planted have increased their lines in a heavy ratio. Counties that never previously paid any attention to the propaganda are putting in systems, and anxiously writing for information regarding cost and feasibility in open country of varying topography.

The farmer with a phone in his house has eliminated nine-tenth of the traditional rural isolation. The world is at his elbow. He can talk with his neighbor a mile away or his merchant at the county seat, or he can even get in touch with his relatives or his business connections in cities a thousand miles away.

His wife and daughters are no longer dependent upon the infrequent and uncertain facilities for promoting social intercourse. They can get in immediate touch with their neighbors, plan quick parties, or summon the doctor without that loss of time often fatal in dangerous cases of illness. On the business side, the farmer stands in his own home and learns whether it will be profitable to make the trip to town to dispose of his cotton or other products. He orders his repair parts for broken farm machinery with a minimum of delay, and he has, above all, that vitalizing consciousness of being in actual touch with the heartbeat of civilization.

The beauty of the thing is that this transformation is being effected at an expense, to the individual, of less than the proceeds from one bale of cotton. Surely, the rural phone is one of the most merciful and practical miracles of 20th century science.

DOZEN WITNESSES IN BEATTIE CASE

"What did you say then?" he was asked.

"I said that if a man would have shot into a car of mine I would have crawled out over my wife's body, grabbed his gun and beaten him with it until only a frazzle was left."

Among the other witnesses at the afternoon session were T. P. Pettigrew to whom a negro delivered the gun, N. H. Jacobs, a justice of the peace, of Chesterfield county, Eddie Shepardson, and James Thomas, both negroes who live near the scene of the crime.

Jacobs, who was called to the Owen home soon after the tragedy, testified that Beattie gave him a statement of the alleged encounter substantially as told to others. The boy had said, however, that he did not believe he could identify the man who fired the shot. He had examined the victim's body and had found dirt— he was not sure it was grit—in the bloody hair. He said he had seen blood on the gun but under cross-examination admitted tat several persons who had been around the bloody car had handled the weapon.

The negro Thomas, whose house stands about 150 yards from where the blood spot was found in the road, testified to hearing two automobiles, one after the other, then the shot. He heard no cries or tooting of horns. The Shepardson boy, who said he lived "two squares" from the scenes, told of having heard the shot and the noise of a car starting toward town.

George Jarrett, a Richmond detective, was called as the first witness. Associated in investigating the case with Detectives Willshire and Wren, who testified yesterday afternoon, Jarrett was put on the stand to complete the description of the scene of the crime, the prisoner's demeanor and his description of the "alleged highwayman."

L. L. Scherer, claim agent for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, who has a reputation as a special investigator, is named in the list of witnesses. He has had almost entire charge of the detectives and through him the State hopes to establish their case. Another witness will be the negress who found the shotgun with which Mrs. Beattie was shot. T. P. Pettigrew, to whom the negress took the gun, will appear on the stand. Then will come Paul Beattie, the prisoner's cousin, who swore to have purchased the gun for Beattie at the latter's direction.

While Beattie slept in the jail here last night, his blood-soaked automobile stood under the trees in the courthouse yard to be shown to the jury today with a view to ascertaining whether the blood would have dripped through to the roadway. The defense pleads that such could not have been the case.

The usual crowd was on hand for the opening of court, and Henry Clay Beattie, Sr., was an early arrival.

The court convened at 10:30. Hundreds of people gathered about the little court house. The prisoner was dressed in a neat blue suit.

Before any witnesses were called H. M. Smith, Jr., for the defense made objection to the introduction of Beattie's letter to Beulah Binford, indicating that the prisoner had corresponded with the girl during his married life. Notwithstanding Mr. Smith's argument, the court ruled that the letter should not be excluded.

Hill Carter, for the defense, then took up the point that the indictment against Beattie refers to the wound in Louise Beattie's "face," rather than to the skull or brain, and that all the testimony relating to a wound other than in the face should be excluded. The court held that inasmuch as the indictment specified penetration of the face, there was no ground for sustaining the defense's contention.

Jarrell, called to the stand this morning, testified that Beattie said his wife's assassin ran into the woods. Thomas Owen, Beattie's uncle-in-law, testified yesterday that the prisoner had told him the man ran up the road.

BEACHEY STAR OF EVENTS

Favorite Southern Aviator Wins Prizes at Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Yesterday was the biggest day of the entire meet, according to truthful persons who have attended the big affair every day since its beginning—the biggest in "things accomplished" and spectators present.

Lincoln Beachey was the star of the day, and for that matter, of the meet. As the khaki-clad trumpeter blew "taps" last night this daring aviator came out of the clouds two miles above the earth and slid wown an invisible corkscrew toboggan to his hangar. He brought with him a new world's record for altitude. Beachey had climbed to a point 11,628 feet above the earth, had climbed and climbed until his motor ran out of gasoline, and then he swooped down from his dizzy height without a vestige of power left in the engine. And there seemed to be no doubt about Beachey's record, either, as there was about Brindley's.

By this sensational feat Beachey won the special prize of $2,000 for the greatest altitude of the meet and the Chicago Athletic Association trophy valued at $2,500. He also added to an alreay world-wide fame as an aviator, for it was Beachey who astounded the world by flying over Niagara Falls in his biplane, through the mist and spray, down the gorge under the suspension of the bridge, around the whirlpool and back—a feat which one must look far to equal.

CHARLOTTE WATER SUPPLY.

Bring Supply From Catawba River—Contracts Awarded.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 25.—The water board, after receiving bids last night for piping for the Catawba River Line, made the award at noon today.

Three miles was awarded to the Glamorgan Pipe & Foundry Co., of Lynchburg, Va., they being lowest bidder on cast iron pipe, entitled them to all they asked for, which was three miles. Price, $22.73 per ton for classes A B and C pipe.

A weighs 204 pounds per foot.
B weighs 233 pounds per foot.
C weighs 279 pounds per foot.

The balance of the line was made cast iron and awarded to U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co., of Chattanooga, in consideration of a reduction of 37 cents per ton in their bid, making their price $22.40 per ton.

These prices are for pipe delivered f.o.b. Charlotte, and also on sidings at Chadwick and Hoskins, 60 cents per ton is to be added to all pipe delivered at Paw Creek siding.

Point at which river will be tapped can not be definitely settled until property can be secured. Figures received are for nine miles pipe. Cost will be approximately $130,000 for materials to build line.

The city could have saved $65,000 if it had used all wood pipe.

Figures are for nine miles. Line will be between nine and ten miles, depending on point tapped.

Exoct cost of pipe line will be known only after bids for laying pipe are received, which bids will be duly advertised for.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 25.—The meeting of Southern Agricultural Commissioners and cotton men, called yesterday by Capt. Reuben E. Kolb to meet in Montgomery, Sept. 5, to take action regarding the true condition of the cotton crop and steps necessary to prevent a bearish campaign has been postponed until Sept. 12.

TRIAL OF BEATTIE PROVING EVENTFUL

PROSECUTION'S STRONG CARD

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Aug. 26.—Considerable progress was made today by the prosecution in the case of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who is on trial for his life charged with the murder of his young wife at a lonely spot on the Midlothian turnpike last month.

A number of important witnesses, including one of the detectives, who has been prominent in the case from the beginning and several boys, the prosecution's strong cards were heard. Just before adjournment of the court, a few minutes before 5 o'clock this afternoon, an application by Beattie's counsel was granted by Judge Watson that accused man be permitted to go to Richmond so that the defense might have "a conference over Sunday and save time," in preparing the cross-examination for the re-convening of court.

There were many tense moments for the prisoner as the prosecution, through the testimony of Detective L. L. Scherer particularly uncovered fragments of conversation which he is alleged to have had with Beattie concerning Beulah Binford, the girl in the case. Plainly evident was the hand of the prosecution today in endeavoring to show the underlying motive for the murder, the fear of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., that his father might learn the resumption of relations with the Binford girl and the alleged physical ailment of Beattie at the time of the murder. The court, in fact, discerned the intention of the prosecution to unfold this part of the mystery, asked permission from the lawyers of both sides to defer the discussion of this point on the stand until another occasion when other witnesses including Dr. Mann, whose information in this connection was stricken out four days ago, might be recalled.

The commonwealth drew tight the lines of circumstantial evidence when it brought to the stand consecutively a half dozen youths, who were returning from a dance on the night of the murder and stopped at the spectacle of the stationary car, the man working on the hood and the woman standing on the running board. One of the boys, W. B. Sydnor, identified the Beattie car, brought to the court house for a first inspection by the jury, as the identical one both as to make and fittings that he and his companions spied that night. Slydnor was on the stand twice, but it was not until the second time, which was after the jury inspection, that the prosecution asked him whether or not the doors on the car he saw were detached from the machine. He remembered exactly that they were, also identifying its khaki-colored hood. The defense attempted by a series of sharp questions to indicate that Sydnor having made no reference to the doors in his morning testimony was inspired during the luncheon hour to emphasize that point as to the crowning feature of his identification only after the jury had examined the Beattie car and noticed the conspicuous absence of both doors. The defense insinuated that the prosecutor had called Sydnor's attention to the doors but the boy said he had remarked on them before.

All six boys told the same story of the woman on the running board and fixed the hour of their passage as almost coincident with the hour of the murder and the prosecution through Detective Scherer's testimony later in the day added to this trend of proof the claim that Beattie's wife was not shot while seated beside him, as the prisoner avers but while standing in the road.

Close upon this was Detective Scherer's narrative of Beattie's inconsistent and varying conversations with him in endeavoring to explain the presence of the pool of blood in the road. Detective Scherer's testimony laid the foundations for the future contention of the prosecution that Beattie shot his wife while standing either on the running board or in the roadway and that the pool of blood did not ooze through the foot boards or lower part of the machine, but resulted from Mrs. Beattie's fall when shot near the car.

Besides pointing to the cumulative testimony of the boys as to the presence of Beattie and his wife on the secluded road the prosecution through F. B. Adams, another boy, scored a point when the youth told of seeing a man alone besides a machine similar to the Beattie car on the self-same road three hours before the murder is supposed to have happened. Adams' tstimony bore out the charges of the prosecution that Beattie could have brought the shot gun obtained from Paul Beattie to the place where a few hours later he conducted his ill-fated wife.

The commonwealth let it be known outside the court room too, that it had discovered a witness, a negro

TWENTY-SIX DEAD SIXTY ARE INJURED

Fearful Crush in Maving Picture Show When Film Exploded.

SCENES WERE INDESCRIBABLE

Shout of "Fire" Responsible for Fearful Results of Minor Accident—Majority of Audience Women and Children

Canonsburg, Pa, Aug. 26.—Twenty-six persons were killed and over sixty were injured tonight when a moving picture film exploded in the Canonsburg opera house.

Immediately following the flash of the film, some persons shouted "Fire!" There was a rush for the exit and in a moment there was a writhing, screaming mass of humanity, ten feet high in the narrow stairway leading to the entrance of the theatre.

Most of the dead were smothered. A majority of the audience was composed of women and children. In the fierce rush for the exit, they were thrown from their feet and trampled. Others were thrown upon them and these at the bottom of the human pile were suffocated.

When two volunteer fire departments reached the theatre the sight staggered them. Those of the audience who had escaped from th building and other spectators drawn to the scene, were rushing about the front of the building. No person, it seemed, was making any effoirt to aid the struggling mass within the theatre.

The firemen pushed into the building and practically threw persons into the street.

As they regained their feet, they ran shrieking in terror about the streets. As firemen neared the bottom of the pile they began to bring out the unconscious forms of the injured and later came the dead.

The dead were laid in a row along the sidewalk. Relatives fought and struggled to break past the guards and reach the victims.

Within a few moments after the film flashed and the panic started the fire whistles were blown. Practically the entire population of the town responded and packed in narrow Pike street from which the fatal theatre entrance led. All of them were apparently terror-stricken and could give little aid. The only cool persons were firemen and several members of the police force.

John McCullough, operator of the moving picture machine, had just thrown down the subject of the next series of pictures on the screen, entitled "A Little Girl Shall Lead Them," when the film exploded and the asbestos cabinet was filled with flames. For several moments the audience, numbering about 1,500, was unaware of the accident. The operator heroically fought down the flames and succeeded in extinguishing them.

Then with hands burned and almost suffocated, he opened the door of the little box and staggered out. With the opening of the door, a dense cloud of smoke poured into the auditorium.

At this moment some person yelled "Fire!" The spectators turned in their seats, saw the smoke, jumped to their feet and then started the awful rush for the lone doorway, leading to the narrow, eight-foot stairway. At the stairway they collided and jammed into probably 200 persons who were awaiting the end of the performance to take the places of those who had seen the show. Immediatly the narrow stairway was packed and jammed ten feet high with the dead and dying.

Late tonight the firemen were reinforced by citizens and the crowd driven far back from the scene. The bodies were then taken to an improvised morgue.

Only a few of the injured were taken to hospitals. Most of them sustained cuts and briuses but not of a serious nature.

In the midst of the excitement an unknown woman threw her infant child from a side window of the theatre 50 feet from the ground. J. W. Reese caught the infant in his arms and placed it in charge of a woman at a nearby fruit store. Up to late tonight the child had not been claimed.

When the dead body of Mrs. Harry Kelly was found she was clasping tight to her breast her five-year-old son. The lad had died from suffocation, but there was not a bruise of scratch on him.

The list of the dead probably would have been greater but for the heroism of Miss Mary Craig, pianist at the theatre. When the cries of "fire" sounded, and the rush to safety started, Miss Craig began playing a slow march. Over and over she played the selection, never faltering and many in the crowd caught the swing of the music, and assisted in holding back the crowd. When the audience had swept from the building, Miss Craig left, uninjured.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—Frankie Conley, of Kenosha, Wis., knocked out Patsy Kline, of Newark, N. J., in the 14th round of what was scheduled to have been a 20-round fight before the Pacific Athletic Club, at Vernon, late today. They fought at 122 pounds.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 26.—The 305-mile road race today won by Len Zengel in a National with Barry Grant second and Hugh Hughes third, was not accomplished without its toll of death and injuries.

Dave Buck, the veteran Chicago automobile racer, and his mechanician were killed as the result of an accident to his Pope-Hartford. Buck had his neck broken, but lived until tonight. Sam Jacobs, the mechanician, died instantly, his neck being broken. Buck was within eleven laps of the finish going 64 miles an hour when his right forward wheel threw a tire. The machine turned a complete somersault.

Another accident in which 30 persons were injured mostly slightly, occurred shortly after 11 o'clock, while the first lap of the race was on, several sections of the insecurely built curcus seats giving way. A thousand or more persons were precipitated to the ground.

When the stringers by which the seats were supported gave way, the boards spread out like a pack of cards and the spectators were shunted into a huddle at the bottom Four sustained broken legs, among them a daughter of Senator Lorimer, but the others escaped with cuts and bruises. From time to time during the remainder of the day warnings were shouted through the megaphones to the remaining spectators not to jump to their in moments of excitement. Many left the grounds after the accident.

The ten cars on the course at the time of the accident were stopped as soon as thy reached the repair pit, but a new start soon was made.

Ralph Mulford, whose Lozier was the last away and who won the race last year, set a terrific pace at once. For fifty-nine miles he drove at 69 miles an hour, leading the field by a good six minutes. On the next lap, however, he went out of the race with a burnt connecting rod bearing.

This placed Len Zengel in first position, with Harry Grant two minutes behind him. It was in this relation that they finished, although Grant lost two minutes when he stopped to change the tires. Zengel made up two stops, both for gasoline and oil. Hugh Hughes, the Mercer driver, who won the Kane county cup yesterday, ran another consistent race, finishing third. He stopped but once for gasoline, and was closely pressing Grant for second place at the finish.

He lost by eleven seconds. Zengel's time averaged for the race four miles an hour faster than that set by Mulford last year. His average was 66.45 miles per hour. Mulford secured the prize for the fastest lap, covering the eight and one-half miles in seven minutes, fourteen seconds

Ralph DePalma and Spencer Wishart, Simplex drivers, went out of the race early, as did Aitken.

THE RETURN OF TOGO.

CAPTAIN OF SLOCUMB PAROLED

Master of Steamer That Burned at Hell Gate With Loss of 1,000 Lives, Finally Released From Sing Sing.

New York, Aug. 26.—Capt. William H. Van Schaick, who was commander of the excursion steamer General Slocum when it burned in Hell Gate June 15, 1904, with a loss of a thousand lives, was paroled by the United States government today and returned to his home in this city tonight from Sing Sing prison.

It was a surprise to his wife and family and to the captain himself. The old man, now 72 years of age, was almost overcome when Warden John S. Kennedy, of Sing Sing, told him today that parole papers had arrived from Attorney General Wickersham.

Following the historical catastrophe, the captain of the Slocum was made a Federal prisoner on a charge of criminal neglect of duty for the failure to have provided worthy fire protection and life preservers on the steamer.

At the time of Capt. Van Schaick's conviction, there was considerable popular sympathy with him because all the punishment for the terrible accident fell on his shoulders. Even the families of the victims came to feel the seeming injustice of his bearing the burden alone and many of them signed a petition for the captain's pardon, which was sent to Washington.

SHOCKING STORY OF CRIME

Booneville, Ind., Lad Makes Further Confession, Telling Gruesome Story of Murder of Father, Mother and Brother.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 26.—William Lee, 22 years of age, confessed late today that he murdered his father, Richard Lee; his mother and a younger brother, Clarence, and that then he set fire to the house in the hope of concealing the crime which was committed at Boonville, early Thursday morning.

In verbal and written statements to Sheriff Davis in the jail here, Lee said his motive was anger because his parents would not consent to his marriage with Mina Taylor, of Newburg, which he had planned for Thursday evening, and would not give him money with which to set up housekeeping.

When the confession was made public, officers started with Lee in an automobile for the State reformatory at Jeffersonville, to prevent possible violence here.

Lee made a statement that he had killed his father in self-defense with an axe after the father had murdered his wife and younger son, but Sheriff Davis all of today pressed the restless prisoner for "the true story", and this afternoon Lee, asking for pen and ink, wrote a haltingly worded confession and afterward pieced together a description of the horrible butchery in the three-room cottage at Boonville.

Lee said he went Wednesday night to Newburg, to call on his fiancee. They talked over the arrangements for their wedding. He had had $100 in the bank, but had spent it, and he knew his parents had $50 in the house. He returned home late at night and his mother reprimanded him, he said. He told her he was determined to be married the following day and she answered that he should not, that he must stay at home.

Going to his own room, Lee said, he "brooded until he was out of his mind." Suddenly he rushed into the room where his father, mother and brother slept.

"I grabbed an axe by the door," he said, "and struck for my father, but hit my mother. My brother raised up and I struck him. Then my father, who had been outside, ran in and started to grab me by the throat. I hit him and he fell. I was scared so bad I didn't know what I was doing. What scared me was that my father had threatened my life and I was angry at what my mother had said."

Lee said he lighted a match to see what he had done and overcome at the sight, dropped the flaming stick on the bed where his mother's body lay.

"The flames flashed up and blinded me," he went on, "and I jumped into my room, put on my trousers and ran to alarm the neighbors. I would not have done this thing for anything if I had had any sense at all."

The fire at the Lee house was put out before the bodies, the skull of each crushed, had been more than scorched and William Lee stolidly helped carry them out to the lawn, insisting that he did not know how they came to their death.

Lee, who is almost illiterate, has been an idler since boyhood, according to testimony at the coroner's inquest, which closed today. His father, a plasterer, appeared to fear him and supplied him with money, even giving him a fourth of the proceeds of the sale of some property recently.

Evidence produced today refuted Lee's statement that he rushed from the house immediately after he had started a fire. A basin, stained with blood, in which he had washed his hands, was found. Long gray hairs, supposedly his mather's, clung to the sides of it.

Hidden behind a door was a basket filled with dishes, knives and forks and kitchen utensils, which it is believed he had packed with the idea that he would escape the consequences of the murder and soon have his own home. The lives of his father and brother were insured for $700 and this would have come to him on their death and that of his mother.

HURLED WOMAN INTO LAKE

Holland, Mich., Aug. 26.—Angered, he said, because Grace Lyons, of Chicago, his sweeheart, broke her promise of marriage, Walter Hopper, of Chicago and Philadelphia, attacked her on board the steamer Puritan, in midlake tonight, and tossed her overboard. Her body has not been recovered.

The steamer was about 40 miles from Holland when the woman was thrown overboard. News of the murder was flashed here by wireless and officers were waiting for Hopper when the boat reached the dock. Several people witnessed his deed and he immediately made a full confession.

According to Hopper, the couple had been living together for a short time as man and wife and were to have been married in a few weeks. Learning that Miss Lyons was laving Chicago on the Puritan today Hopper caught the boat and accosted her shortly afterwards. She claimed he had been drinking. A quarrel followed and then, Hopper claims, she declared the marriage would not take place.

They were seated on a box of freight on the lower deck. Suddenly Hopper grabbed her in his arms, rushed to the side of the steamer and dropped her overboard. As he was taken in custody, boats were lowered, but it is believed that the body was drawn down by the suction of the wheel.

Hopper is 31 years of age and Miss Lyons was 26. The prisoner will be arraigned here on a murder charge Monday.

FIRE AT ROCKY MOUNT

Sash and Blind Factory Destroyed, Entailing A Loss of $45,000

(By Long Distance Telephone)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Aug. 26.—The plant of the Rocky Mount Sash & Blind Co., covering an area of three acres was totally destroyed by fire which originated from an unknown source in the plaining mill department at 11 o'clock tonight. The loss, including large stock on hand just at this time, is estimated at $45,000 with $12,000 insurance. Several workmen at the plant personally lost tools valued at $200 each. The firemen responded to the alarm, working valiantly to save adjoining property, several of them having been overcome by the intense heat. The office building was saved. The stock was valued at $20,000 and the plant at $25,000. It is not known yet whether the factory will be rebuilt. The plant employed 60 men.

STEAMER IN COLLISION

Struck Float of Cars in New York Harbor—Passengers Excited

New York, Aug. 26.—The steamer North Star, of the Maine Steamship Company, bound for Portland, Maine, with 200 passengers, collided with a float of freight cars in the East river tonight, and was seriously damaged. Her starboard plates were so badly bent that water poured into the vessel rapidly but after the closing of the water tight bulkhead the steamer was gotten safely back to her pier and disembarked her excited passengers. The vessel will have to be dry docked for repairs.

TAFT PAVING WAY FOR THE CAMPAIGN

SINGLED OUT THE LEADERS

Regards the Proposed Revision of Tariff as Injudicious and Dangerous to Business—Fires Telling Shot.

Hamilton, Mass., Aug. 26.—President Taft began the Presidential campaign of 1912 here today, his friends believe. In a speech that breathed defiance, he scored the "insurgent" members of the Republican party in Congress and the Democrats who combined to revise several schedules of the present tariff at the special session of Congress, just closed.

He singled out Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, Speaker Clark and Chairman Underwood, of the House Ways and Means Committee, as leaders of the attempted revision. He indicated that he regarded the proposed revision as injudicious and dangerous to business, but made it plain that if the tariff board in December reports that downward revision of the cotton and wool schedules should be made, he would recommend it.

Standing on the board terrace of Congressman A. P. Gardner's farm with Senator Lodge and other Massachusetts Republican leaders the President addressed 500 members of the Essex County Republican Club. Their cheers were loud and long.

"The extra session of Congress was called for the purpose of confirming the Canadian reciprocity treaty, which it did by a support made up of votes from both parties. I have no doubt Massachusetts, by both parties would confirm its adoption.

"Our Democratic friends, however, were not content to allow the session to pass with the accomplishment of the purpose for which it was called. They assisted—most of them—in the passage of the reciprocity bill, because they believed in its usefulness, and in so doing they united with the Republican support and did not 'play politics' in its passage.

"However, having pursued a purely statesmanlike course with reference to reciprocity, they did 'play politics' of the most irresponsible character in respect to three tariff bills, which by uniting with certain Republicans in the Senate, they were able to pass and present to the executive for his signature.

"I recognize the general demand throughout the country for a reduction of duties so far as that reduction can be made consistent with the maintenance of a measure of protection that shall enable the industries of the country to live.

"The time of the Chinese wall and duties exceeding the difference between the cost of production here and the cost of production abroad has passed, and we of the Republican are under an obligation as soon as opportunity comes to advocate and carry through a revision of the tariff which shall meet the present popular demand and to which we are really pledged.

"Therefore, when the tariff board shall make its report in December on wool and cotton, I expect to submit to Congress recommendations based on the report for a revision of both schedules. I have already expressed my opinion that the woolen schedule is too high; that it has prevailed for so many years that it ought to be revised, and is the subject of complaint, not only to consumers, but also by those who are engaged in the industries affected. So far as I can help it, however, no such revision will take place unless it is made with a full knowledge of the facts as found by an impartial investigation.

"The public will have ample time calmly to consider and decide whether they desire to put into power gentlemen leading a party who, while professing a wish for facts and information so as to make tariff legislation as just as possible, no sooner have the opportunity than they adopt measures with the old ignorance of the facts, with the same political motives, and with the same indifference to the exact operation of the duties imposed, as they themselves so severely criticised in others responsible for previous tariff legislation."

NORFOLK POLITICAL TANGLE

Investigation Into "Fusionism" is Still In Progress.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 26.—The subcommittee from the Democratic State Committee investigating "fusionism" between Democrats and Republicans in Norfolk county, spent another day in hearing affirmative testimony offered by the "Straightout" Democratic side which announced that it could not conclude its case in chief until Tuesday night. Much testimony was introduced in an effort to show that one faction of the Democratic party fuses with the Republicans with the charge made that Republicans are thereby dominating the Democratic party machinery in the county. The defense will begin its evidence next week and th investigation may be ended within less than ten days.

In the first game at the ball park yesterday afternoon the Soldier Boys were suffering from "too much" catcher, and in consequence the Railroaders still continue to head the percentage column with a first-class chance of running away with the second season in the contest for the local championship. With the exception of that "Too Much," it was a first-class game, although listless.

Whitehead had some good benders with him that should have produced better results as he had the Coast Line hard hitters pulling at them in all directions, but "Too Much" did not seem to know where they were going any better than the bewildered Railroaders, and when a Railroader got on the circuit, it was a case of keeping going until the run was chalked up. The good work of other members of the team kept the score within speaking distance.

In the first "Skeet" Emerson, first up, stopped the first ball pitched with his shoulder blade and was entitled to the initial sack. He stole second and went to third on Parker's specialty, a passed ball. Taylor was donated a free pass to first and went on down on the first ball pitched. Emerson made a bluff at stealing home and was caught before he reached his goal, but, after teasing the whole opposing team for a while, managed to get a throw between the shoulder blades and went home with the first tally of the game. Taylor meantime strolled around to third, but had no chance to score, as Hines flied out to left and Calder made a beautiful throw to the plate, catching Taylor "way off." Terry rapped out a single, but it was useless, as he was cought trying to pilfer second.

In the third the Soldiers tied it up when, with one down, Orrell beat out an infield hit, stole second and third and scored when Pomp Green delivered a wide one to the plate.

In the fourth the Coast Line scored one more when Hines drew free transportation, stole second and from there raced home when Parker tried to draw a Durham $50 check by throwing the ball at the Bull in centre field.

In the fifth the Coast Liners placed the game begond doubt by adding two more to their credit. Starritt led off with a single and stole second. Bergen threw his bat at the ball and was called out for interfering with the catcher in his attempt to stop Starritt's steal. LeMoyne flied out. Starritt stole third and scored when Parker let another one pass him. Green sent a bounder along third base line, which landed on fair ground and gained "Pomp" a single to his credit. LeMoyne running for him, stole second, went to third on Parker's next passed ball and scored when the same made a bad throw to third.

In the sixth the Coast Line again scored on Taylor's free transportation, his theft of second, Boswell's dumb handling of Hines' grounder and Whitehead's wild pitch.

Again in the eighth, they sent one across when Green singled, went to second on Emerson's out and scored when Parker took credit for another passed ball. In the eighth the Soldiers tried to overcome the lead of their opponents, but one additional tally was the best they could do.

The Second Game.

The second game was an easy victory for the Y. M. C. A., putting them in the running for the play-off at the end of the season, although they are still behind the Railroaders. McEachern pitched a first-class game, allowing only two hits, giving two passes and fanning eight men.

Both teams scored in the second, the Brigaders taking the lead by one tally when Smith drew a pass and went to second on Gore's sacrifice, scoring later when Lacy hammered a two-bagger over Seller's head in right field. In their half the Y. M. C. A., forged ahead and took a lead which they never lost. With one down, Shepherd walked, going to third in Sellers' clean single to center. Bell bunted and Shepherd was caught trying to got home, Sellers going to third and Bell traveling to second during the play. Then "Chick" Brittain singled over third base, scoring Sellers and Bell. Bergen was out on an infield grounder.

In the fourth and fiifth the Y. M. C. A. added two more aided by three errors, two stolen bases, two passed balls and a hit, and, although the Brigaders had to assert themselves, one lonely run in the ninth was the best they could do, and the game ended to the credit of the hustlers from Front and Grace.

CRONLY TAKES ANOTHER

Won Well Played Game From Wilmington Giants Yesterday

In one of the prettiest exhibitions seen on the Cronly diamond this season, the locals defeated the Wilmington Giants yesterday afternoon, the score being 3 to 1. These are two of the strongest teams in this territory and being well matched, the game was well played throughout developing many star features. Perhaps the ones deserving special mention most were Wooten, Riley and Porter, whose batting was responsible for their victory, and the superb pitching exhibition of Cronly's star twirler, King. The score:

Giants 1 6 2
Cronly 3 11 0

Yopp and Wilson; King and King. Bases on balls, off Yopp, 3; struck out, by Yopp 6; by King, 14; hit by pitched ball, by Yopp, 2; King 1; umpire, Marshall.

HANDSOME NEW HOME.

Life Insurance Company of Virginia Builds in Richmond—Progress.

Elsewhere in today's Star is printed an excellent likeness of the handsome new building which the Life Insurance Company of Virginia is erecting in Richmond, Va., and which will be ready for occupancy in the Spring of the New Year. It will be of Corinthian style of architecture, having a frontage of 150 feet on Capitol street and 50 feet on Tenth street. It will be a massive stone, steel-frame structure, and built especially for the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, the oldest, largest and strongest Southern life insurance company. Many Wilmington and North Carolina policyholders and friends of the company will be interested and pleased at this latest evidence of the strength and enterprise of this old and well known insurance organization.

While the business of the company all over the South has gone forward by leaps and bounds, making necessary the new and enlarged headquarters at Richmond, Wilmington has kept the pace and last year's business showed a phenomenal increase under the able superintendency of Mr. B. T. Hopkins, in charge of the Wilmington district. The local offices are at 17, 18 and 19 Garrell Building, where a large corps of solicitors, bookkeepers and stenographers are employed. G. F. Hall, 619 Realty Building, Charlotte, N. C., is the general State agent.

Accused of Robbing Man.

Whitefield Crandall and Frank Cumber, white, were arrested late last night on the charge of having beaten and robbed Lonnie Pershake, white, the sum said to have been taken from him being $2.75. Officer D. W. Coleman arrested the men at Sixth and Castle streets. Both deny that they robbed or beat Pershake. All three men are said to be in the employ of Furlong & Co.

Brooklyn, Aug. 26.—Brooklyn and Chicago divided a double-header today. Both games were closely fought. The locals took the first four to two by batting Smith hard in two innings, although a dropped ball by Archer at the plate was directly responsible for the winning tallies. Schardt and Cole had a pitchers' duel in the second, Chicago taking it 3 to 2. H. Zimmerman scored the winning run in the ninth on a pass, a sacrifice and two hits.

Though Mathewson was hit a little hard, he was effective in every inning but the eighth, when Pittsburg scored two runs on singles by Byrne and Clarke and Wilson's double. Camnitz was hit hard and retired after four inning. Poor support by the Pirates helped the Giants to pile up runs.

Boston, Aug. 26.—St. Louis and Boston split today's double-header, the Cardinals taking the first game 2 to 1, and the Rustlers with "Cy" Young in the box, winning the second 5 to 4. Young showed a return to some of his old time form, being strong in the pinches and striking out nine men, although he was hit hard.

(Communicated.)

At its regular weekly business meeting Friday night last the Good Roads and Sanitary Association of colored people, elected Mrs. S. J. Martin as visiting nurse among her people. Mrs. Martin will take training under Dr. C. W. Stiles, of the Marine Hospital, the hookworm specialist stationed here now by the government. It is a splendid honor conferred upon Mrs. Martin by the organization under whose direction she will work and the honor comes wholly unsolicited by her.

The organization is now down to business and much good will be done. Slum work, by some one well experienced, will come in the line of the work in due time and the co-operation shown by those composing this enterprise is a splendid indication of much good in this new venture. It is the intention of the organization to give whatever good positions it may have to those identified with their work.

INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS.

Work Has Been About Completed—Contract for New Building.

Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, and Dr. W. D. MacMillan, county superintendent of health, have been engaged for the past few days in inspecting the rural school buildings in the different parts of the county, and have about completed the work.

The inspection is made with a view of ascertaining the exact conditions, such as sanitary arrangements of the buildings, water supply, etc., and Messrs. Catlett and MacMillan made their examination most thorough. It is expected that when the school open for the Fall term one week from tomorrow the buildings and surroundings will be in better condition than ever before.

Among the schools inspected are those, both white and colored, at East Wilmington, Middle Sound, Scott's Hill, Delgado, Masonboro Sound, Castle Haynes, Wrightsboro and Greenville.

John H. Sampson has been awarded the contract for the erection of the new school house at Rock Hill, District No. 12, and will begin work tomorrow. The old building was destroyed by fire a short time ago. The new structure will be quite an improvement over the old one, having a main room 31 feet long by 22 feet in width.

RALEIGH CHURCH CELEBRATES

Bishop Hoss Guest of Chief Justice Clark for Exercises Today—Gov. Kitchin on Speaking Tour. Charters Issued.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 26.—Bishop E. E. Hoss, of Nashville, Tenn., one of the most able bishops of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, is here a guest in the home of Chief Justice Walter Clark of the Supreme Court. He is here for the celebration of the 69th anniversary of the founding of Central Methodist Episcopal Church here tomorrow. He will deliver the anniversary sermon tomorrow morning.

There will be four services during the day and all the living former pastors will participate with Pastor A. D. Wilcox, in the exercises. These are Rev. R. F. Bumpass, Rev. R. B. John, Rev. L. L. Nash, Rev. J. B. Hurley, Rev. D. H. Tuttle, Rev. E. C. Glenn, Rev. G. T. Adams, Rev. F. A. Bishop, Rev. C. W. Robinson, Rev. L. B. Jones, all of whom are now actively in the conference ministry.

Governor Kitchin returned today from Davidson, N. C., and Greensboro, where he delivered addresses. At Davidson he was the orator for the fourth annual celebration of the organization of the town of Davidson, a gala day that has come so especially notable in that section of the State. The Governor discussed "Good Citizenship" and delivered an address that was devoid of political features, save a thrust at the protective tariff as it affects the farmers, insisting that such tariff as applied to farm products does not mean one cent more in the pockets of the farmers when the exported products have to be sold in the open markets of the world. The Governor stopped in Greensboro last night and delivered an address for the Improved Order of Red Men at Revolution Mills. The Governor has within the past year taken the degrees in the order of Red Men and is very popular in the fraternity.

The Hertford Hardware & Supply Co., of Hertford, N. C., was chartered today with $50,000 capital by N. S. Fireford and R. L. Knowles and others for general hardware business.

Commissioner of Agriculture Graham went today to Goodwin, this county, near Cary, to take part in an annual farmers' picnic, he being one of the special speakers for the occasion. He says the crops in that section of the county are well up to the average with danger just now of deterioration unless there is more rain very soon.

A strenuous effort is on foot to bring about the putting of at least a pouch mail service on the new Seaboard Air Line shoo-fly train from Raleigh to Hamlet. The prospects are good, it is said, for this improvement in mail service to be made. The train is proving quite satisfactory in the matter of travel so that there seems to be no doubt as to the permanentcy of the train service.

AFTER THE STORM

"Red Buck's" Estimate of Extra Session—Underwood and Bryan

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—The extra session has passed into history. What of it?

The Canadian reciprocity bill.

The Statehood bill.

The campaign publicity bill, requiring publicity before and after elections.

Four bills were vetoed, the Statehood bill in its original form, permitting Arizona to come in with the recall feature of its constitution, the wool, cotton and free list bills.

Briefly this tells the story. There have been sensations and investigations but nothing very big has been uncovered.

Nine investigations were authorized; fifty-odd asked for.

But, after all is said and the clouds have passed, people will begin to search for political results What have the Democrats gained? What the Republicans? What men have grown in power and public favor?

These are questions that days will bring.

Oscar Underwood, the brilliant, bold, daring young Southern leader, came out of the extra session with more glory than any other man. The World, of New York, says that his leadership has put him in the presidential class, but his residence disqualifies him.

Mr. Underwood is a great leader. He has education, common sense and judgment He is like a good piece of metal, every time you strike him he rings clear His work here has pleased most Democrats but has enraged William Jennings Bryan. The peerless is jealous and selfish. He knows that as Oscar Underwood goes up he goes down. Bryan hopes to control the next National Democratic convention and write into the platform the initiative, the referendum and the recall. He would do that if no more

Mr. Underwood will be a strong man (candidate for the presidency excluded) if he goes at the regular session as he did at the last one. He will be a great factor.

But, there will be blue days for Mr. Underwood before the National convention. He will feel the weight of Mr. Bryan's hand. Since the Underwood-Bryan controversy of ten days or two weeks ago the Bryan men have become active; they have drawn their blades. Ollie James, Bryan's Kentucky lieutenant, tried to couple Mr. Underwood with the interests. He virtually charged him with being too thick with them. That is the Bryan way. If a Democrat does not fall in line with the Bryan theory or idea he is put into the camp of J. P. Morgan. That is the first step. All of the me-too papers in the land follow the lead of the Commoner.

The friends of Mr. Bryan will not win The Bryan stock is too low and the Underwood stock is too high to bring about the overthrow of the present leader of the House. Mr. Bryan will make trouble but he will not be leader at the next convention.

WHITEVILLE AFFAIRS.

Death of Register of Deeds Smith—Death at Florence—Other News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Aug. 26.—Further particulars of the death of Mr. E. C. Smith, Register of Deeds of Columbus county, are that he was much better and that the night before his death he sat on his piazza, talked with friends and remarked that he would be able to return to his office in a day or so. Friday about 2 o'clock he was sitting on the side of his bed and suddenly fell backward and expired. It has since developed that his death was from heart failure, which is prominent in his mother's family, five members of which expired suddenly and without warning. On his death, it was found that Mr. Arthur Baldwin, assistant in the office, had never been sworn in as a Deputy Register of Deeds, and as the position cannot remain vacant, Clerk of Court Stanley at once telephoned the members of the Board of County Commissioners to convene forthwith and name some one to take charge of the office. It devolves on the Commissioners to select Mr. Smith's successor.

A very sad death occurred last week in Florence, S. C., when Mrs. James R. Lenday died after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. Mrs. Lenday was before her marriage, two years ago, Miss Mamie Richardson, daughter of the late Mr. Velly Richardson, formerly of Whiteville. She was only 18 years old at the time of her death and a young woman of attractive personality. Besides her husband and a blind mother, Mrs. Lenday leaves several brothers and sisters, besides a number of other relatives. The remains were brought from Florence and tenderly laid away in the Whiteville cemetery.

Mrs. Priscilla Thompson died last Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. S. Hayes, in Vineland. Mrs. Thompson lived in our town until a few years ago, when she moved to Vineland. She was a woman of many noble traits of character and leaves a wide circle of friends who will regret to learn of her death.

Dr. Lucas, of Pender county, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Seth L. Smith, last week.——Mrs. Dr. Page, of Lumberton, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. V. Grady, last week.——Mrs. L. F. Patterson, of Bainbridge, Ga., is visiting Mrs. J. A. Brown, of Chadbourn.——Dr. Richard Smith, a skilled young dentist, is now assisting Dr. W. Ross Davis.——Mrs. Strange Nance and her charming little daughter, Miss Margaret, will spend the Winter in Chadbourn with Mrs. Nance's mother, Mrs. Case. Mr. Case has accepted a position in Florida. Mr. Nance will continue with Memory Co., but spend Sundays in Chadbourn.

The many friends of Misses Hilda Merrell and Aileen Smith will be glad to learn that they will again this season be connected with Powell & Powell.——Mrs. Helen Gantt Mims left for Sumter, S. C., last evening, but will return to Whiteville next week.

There were a number of farmers in town yesterday, as crops are laid by. From what your correspondent can gather, there are the finest crop prospects this year ever known in Columbus county. Early cotton is heavily loaded, but the late plants are lightly fruited. The yield of the latter depends on a late Fall. Corn is extra fine and a large acreage has been planted.

E. R. Wright, a young man of about 21 years of age, passed through the city yesterday in the custody of an officer who was taken him to Fort Caswell, where he will be tried by court martial for deserting from the United States army post at San Antonio, Texas. Wright is a native of North Carolina, having lived with his parents near Greensboro until a few months ago when he enlisted in the army. He stated yesterday that he deserted because he was tired of the army life. Wright was taken to Fort Caswell on the afternoon boat.

THE FARMER

Prosperity in the South Due to His Efforts—His Interest in the Banks

With the rapid development of the agricultural lands in the South, we are beginning to realize how much the condition of the farmer has changed during the past ten years; in fact, shortly after the organization of the People's Savings Bank, of Wilmington, nearly twelve years ago, this section of North Carolina took on new life and today is bountiful and prosperous. The interest of our farmers in the banking business is shown by the number that are stockholders in the People's Savings Bank, one of the strongest institutions in the South, and they are represented on the Board of Directors of that well-known bank, which long ago offered to the people living out of the city the modern method of banking by mail.

The farmer finds at the People's Bank, which has for its home that Big White Building, corner Front and Princess streets, a place of safety for his savings, interest paid him on his account at the rate of Four Per Cent. YOUNG MAN RELEASED.

Prosecutor Would Not Send for W. W. Strain, Arrested Here.

At a hearing last night at 10:15 in his office on Princess street, Justice Harriss quashed the indictment against W. W. Strain, the young white man arrested here Friday evening at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna D. Dudley, upon telegraphic information stating that he was wanted in Macon, Ga., for the commission of a felony, and Mr. Strain was allowed to go free.

The hearing followed the receipt of a second telegram from Sheriff J. R. Hicks, Jr., of Macon, reading as follows: "Release Strain; prosecutor will not send for him," and some discussion which followed a point raised by local attorneys in regard to the legality of the warrant on which Strain was arrested. This point was brought out at the hearing by W. P. Mangum Turner, Esq., and J. O. Carr, Esq., who had volunteered to defend the young man. Messrs. Turner and Carr both argued that the warrant was not sufficient ground for holding the young man on account of the fact that it did not charge a specific offense, only alleging that a felony had been committed, and that the paper did not comply with the statute covering the case.

Justice Harriss questioned Chief of Police John J. Fowler in order to learn if there was any specific offense charged against Strain, and Chief Fowler stated that there was not, to the best of his knowledge.

Accordingly Justice Harriss quashed the indictment and released Mr. Strain from custody. The young man thanked the justice and the attorneys for what they had done in his behalf and proceeded to the home of Mrs. Dudley.

MR. MELVIN B. ANDREWS.

Popular Young Minister and Author to be Here Today.

Mr. Melvin B. Andrews, of Mt. Olive, who is to conduct the morning and evening service at Fifth Street M. E. Church for Rev. G. T. Adams today, was a ministerial student at Trinity College last year. While there he gave right much of his time to the study of poetry and as a result he has published during this Summer's vacation, a neat little volume of original verse called, "A School Boy's Poems." He wrote nearly all the poems in the book this Spring while at Trinity. "The work is of decided literary merit," says the editor of the Mount Olive Tribune, while President Few, of Trinity, and others have given the book high endorsement. Mr. Andrews will spend several days this week in the city canvassing for his book at 25 cents per copy and as he is raising money to help defray his expenses at Trinity this year, it is hoped that he will meet with liberal and cordial responses from Wilmington people.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

Week-End Session Dull—One Defendant Gets 12 Months.

The week-end session of the Recorder's court yesterday morning was exceedingly tame and even the habitual attendants found little to interest them in the proceedings.

"Boss" Scarborough, colored, for trying to convert Tom Leak, also colored, into a human sieve with leaden bullets, received a sentence of 12 months on the county roads.

Mary King and Hattie Lee, a dusky pair, charged with being a nuisance, were let off on the payment of costs. The case came up from Justice Bornemann's court.

Chancey Carroll, colored, was charged with violating the dog tax ordinance and judgment was suspended on payment of costs.

In the case charging William Fuller, colored, with disorderly conduct, judgment was suspended on payment of costs.

At Fifth Street Church.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. G. T. Adams, who has gone to Raleigh to attend the 69th anniversary of Central Church, of which he was formerly pastor, Rev. B. M. Andrews, of Trinity college, will conduct the services at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. today.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with headaches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. I have a fine strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. A. A. Giles, Route 44, Dewittville, N. Y.

Wonder will President Taft keep right on smiling when he finds out in 1912 that his name is Mud?

The worst of the nature fakers is a lobster who tries to make everybody believe he is the lion of the occasion.

President Taft is scheduled to make 200 speeches on his Western tour. That would be enough talk to save the country if there were anything in it.

Now it is said that Beulah Binford is to be seen in the moving picture shows. We should think a mental picture of Beulah is more than should be stood for under the circumstances.

Wizard Edison declares his disbelief in future punishment. Probably he came to the conclusion that his invention of the phonograph was all the punishment a poor fellow can stand.

The Jacksonville Times-Union remarks: "Perspicacity throws dim prospects in bold relief." Then, we presume, perspicacity is the first cousin to the pipe dream of a visionary cuss.

The women voters of Seattle are again entering upon a campaign to recall the mayor. The mayor seems to be having enough recall trouble to make him a strong advocate of wife beating.

Those Washington officials who tried to shake Dr. Wiley have found out that he was bad medicine. His vindication is a bitter pill for them to swallow, but they have to take their medicine.

It is now stated by the Rock Hill Record that Ty Cobb says he was born in Banks county, Ga., Dec. 18, 1886. Of course, if that is so, it simply shows that accidents will happen in the very best of families.

Quoth Shakespeare: "All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players." However, most of them don't know how to play the game and all you've got to do is to call the bluff of the boneheads.

A married man in Chicago committed suicide because he got home too late for supper. It's curious that some men will commit suicide for the same reason other men would laughingly seize as an excuse to get down town to buy a ham sandwich.

Republicans have to whistle to keep up the courage of their convictions since they see what a fix they have got the country in. No man can so vote as to bring about a bad state of affairs without being himself one of the victims of his own folly.

In the midst of your prosperity, think of some plan by which you can combine with other prosperous men and establish some industry that will add to the general prosperity. Don't wait for the outsider. He is slow about coming. Few come unless a scout goes after them.

Says the Red Springs Citizen: "Fayetteville is going to give the people of Cumberland a big barbecue and picnic at the Fair Grounds, on August 30th. That's the thing to do." Ah, hem! How would you like to be one of the people of Cumberland? Yum! Yum!

What if we could sell our seashore with its breezes, its surf, its sailing, its fishing, its pig fish, its crabs, its shrimp, its oysters, and its Summer girls? Suppose nothing! We wouldn't swap it for the pearls of Perambina. If that's so, and it mostly is, why don't we make more out of our stupendous asset? We ought to work it for all it is worth, and that is millions.

THE LINCOLN MEMORIAL

The entire American Republic will be quite satisfied that a fitting memorial is to be erected at the Nation's Capital to perpetuate the memory of Abraham Lincoln, to whom history will rightly ascribe a high place among the world's great men. He was the Republic's war President and he had to deal with the most momentous event of the country's history. Just how he handled a situation of stupendous gravity, with what profound ability, earnest patriotism, great heartedness and conscientious devotion was manifested by him in the discharge of overwhelmingly onerous and delicate duties, is clear to all men. There are none to dispute the greatness of Lincoln, and it is not only natural but proper, and notably an evidence of national gratefulness and greatness that the united country—the Union which was first in his heart and the preservation of which was his soul's desire—should demonstrate the glorious trait that will pay to his memory a tribute that will endure for all time.

A half century has passed since the trying period when he had in his keeping the destinies of the Union, but after the fleeting years have clarified the questions, mellowed the tragic aspect of the struggle, and brought peace and greatness to the country, it turns quietly to build a monument to one whose name will forever be a part of the Nation's history. Even though fifty years have passed, there is no diminution of the admiration and gratitude of a great people for the Martyr President, but the seeming delay in paying deserved tribute to his memory and sacrifice for the Union has given opportunity for the North and the South to unite in spirit and purpose to build them a memorial with motive in common, and more imposing and meaning than if a less pretentious monument had been erected in haste as merely a partisan tribute. Now it is all the people who honor Lincoln, just as we are satisfied that time has brought universal honor for the immortan Robert E. Lee.

The Lincoln memorial will be erected in Washington just where it should be. It will cost $2,000,000, which Congress appropriated for the purpose, but if it is found insufficient the American people will stand as one for any necessary additional appropriation that will erect a monument representative of the great Union and expressive of the universal patriousm of a great people. In the South we are all the prouder of a Nation that does not forget—a country whose trait is gratefulness and generousness. That is well, indeed, and so long as that spirit animates the American people there is no occasion to despair of George Washington's Republic.

Sharing, as North Carolina does, in the national sentiment that there should be a typically American memorial to Lincoln, there is in it an element of pride for Wilmington, since the designer of the imposing Lincoln memorial is a "Wilmington boy." He is Henry Bacon, now a New York architect who has won international fame. It has already been announced from Washington and published in The Star that President Taft, upon recommendation of the Fine Arts Commission, has appointed Mr. Bacon as the designer. It is a stupendous work and consequently a distinction of great magnitude for the former Wilmingtonian. Mr. Bacon was not born in Wilmington, it is true, but he was reared here from a mere lad to manhood's estate. He was a school boy here and the foundation for his education was laid in the primary and academic schools of Wilmington. He is the son of the late Mr. Henry Bacon whose family resided here and who for so many years was connected with the engineer corps of the United States Army, located in Wilmington in charge of the government improvement of the Cape Fear river and the harbor at this port. Mr. Bacon's father was a great engineer himself and it was he who designed, planned and supervised the construction of what is locally known as "The Rocks." The Rocks is a massive stone dam which effectively and permanently closed New Inlet, one of the two inlets through which the Cape Fear river poured its waters into the Atlantic ocean. That dam is a stupendous affair itself and it is a lasting monument to the genius and skill of the late Mr. Henry Bacon. The dam is about a mile and an eighth long, and for more than thirty years it has defied the ocean and contributed to deepening the navigable channel of the Cape Fear, now making it possible for the present project of a thirty-foot channel for ocean navigation, upon which Wilmington has built a commerce second largest of all ports south of Baltimore. The son inherited the genius of his father and received the early benefits of an experience that has placed him in the forefront of architects of America, and possibly second to none in Europe.

Architect Bacon is yet a young man, barely 45 years of age, yet he has before won distinction and fame for his artistic designs and superior work. He is not only an artist of rare gifts but it is said of him that his conception of symmetry, grace and beauty is one of his chief attributes. He is known in America and Europe, and his work has had the approval and praise of the world's most famous artists and architects. In Wilmington there is just pride of his achievements, and yet his host of friends and acquaintances love to think of him as Harry Bacon, the school boy friend, the Wilmington boy, the son of a highly esteemed father and mother—the brother of Mrs. W. B. McKoy, now among the best known residents of Wilmington. As to some of his achievements we quote from the New York Post, the following with reference to Mr. Bacon's appointment as designer of the Lincoln memorial:

"Most of Mr. Bacon's work has been done in conjunction with sculptors. That is, he has designed the architectural part of monuments for which they have been supplied the statuary and sculptured ornaments. He frequently co-operated with the late Augustus Saint Gaudens. Their joint work is to be seen in the Mark Hanna monument at Cleveland; the Melvin monument at Concord, Mass.; the Whistler, at West Point; the Flower memorial at Watertown, N. Y., and the monument to Charles Stewart Parnell which is being raised in Sackville Street, Dublin. He co-operated with Daniel C. French in the Roger Wolcott memorial in Boston, the Oglethorpe in Savannah, the Marshall Field in Chicago, the Samuel Spencer, at Atlanta; with Karl Bitter in the Carl Schurz memorial in this city, and with Charles Niehaus in the Benjamin Harrison memorial at Indianapolis. He designed the Hanna mausoleum at Cleveland and that of Vice President Hobart at Paterson. Among the buildings of which he was the architect are the simple but stately Union Square Savings Bank; the Paterson Public Library in Jersey City; the Scranton Memorial Library in Madison, Conn.; the Eclectic Society Building in Middletown, Conn., and the Waterbury General Hospital, which is now being built. As the possible architect of the Lincoln memorial, a short sketch of Mr. Bacon's life may interest our readers. He was born at Watseka, Ill., in November, 1866, of Massachusetts parents. His father was a civil engineer, who in his last years was in the employ of the government. Young Bacon entered the University of Illinois, but after a year there went to Boston and started to learn architecture in the firm of Chamberlin & Whidden. He came to New York in 1888, and was employed in the office of McKim, Mead & White. In 1889 he won the Rotch (Boston) traveling scholarship and passed two years in Europe, where he spent most of his time studying the ancient buildings and monuments of Greece and Italy. He returned to McKim, Mead & White, and in 1897 formed the firm of Britt & Bacon, which was dissolved in 1903. Since then he has worked by himself, his office being in the Mohawk Building, No. 160 Fifth avenue."

By the way, Henry Bacon's name and fame is being published throughout the country, and pictures and sketches of him have appeared and are yet appearing in the leading newspapers and technical journals of the country.

STRING OF TOURIST HOTELS

Wilmington ought to figure in the circuit of tourist hotels for Winter travel in the South. We have made a matchless Summer resort at our ocean suburb, and we can just as easily win fame for Wilmington as the mecca of Northern visitors who are always on the chase for climate, recreation and rest. In this country of nearly 100,000,000 people there are hundreds of thousands who can afford to take it easy, and in the Summer they hunt for breezes, and in the Winter for sunshine.

Wilmington's joint assets are ravishing Summer breezes and glorious Winter sunshine. We are realizing on our Summer asset but letting our Winter asset lie in the treasury without gain. We must quit that, and work our sunshine and genial climate for all it is worth. We know ourselves how balmy and delightful are the Winters in this favored region, and while we regard it as a blessing we are neglecting to place that blessing within the reach of those who flee from the rigors of inhospitable climes.

People with the means not only fly from the wintry blasts but they go forth for health, for recreation, and for pleasure. They flit from point to point where they find the climate, the hotel accommodations and the playgrounds. They would find the most charming climate at Wilmington, but the motel accommodations for affluent tourists are lacking. We must provide the hotels, a half dozen or more, and if we do so we will witness even gayer Winters than our Wilmington Summers with all their attractive and delightful features.

We can start with two or three hotels, and not another Winter should be allowed to go to waste without putting Wilmington on the map and the railroad folders as a Winter resort. Even Camden, in the midst of South Carolina, has seven commodious tourist hotels and they are crowded from the beginning to the end of the season. Aiken has several splendid Winter hostelries, and there are Southern Pines and Pinehurst, in North Carolina, which attract tourists from the North as well as from the South who go there to see what a Winter resort looks like and to mix with the visitors who are taking in Southern sunshine. By next Winter Wilmington should be on the circuit of tourist hotels, and we surely will get the guests if we will but build two or three elegant hotels, only such as wealthy pleasure-seekers are finding all the way from Southern Pines to Jacksonville and Palm Beach. Tourists find joy and recreation in flitting from place to place. They want to try one a while and then another, and while some are going others are coming. They will come to Wilmington and be delighted and charmed if we will but give them the opportunity.

Hotels prove a splendid asset for a city and a good investment for capital. We never hear of tourist hotels making an assignment, but from season to season we see them increasing their elegance, their sumptiousness and their luxuriousness. The reason is that they are financial successes. They would be so in Wilmington. The hotels alreay in Wilmington are financial success, regardless of size, of quality or management. Our hotels are constantly improving and adding to their attractions for the regular travel, and it will be found that if we had a bunch of tourists hotels it would wonderfully help our regular hotels and boarding houses. It isn't the tourist hotels that get all the guests, but the hotels for Winter guests and recreationists advertise a locality as a Winter resort, and, therefore, people of all kinds of means flock to the point where the crowd is. Some want it quiet and others want it gay and wherever the crowd is that is where everybody naturally wants to go. Our present hotels and boarding houses would get their share just as does those of Southern Pines, Pinehurst, Camden, Aiken, Jacksonville, Palm Beach, etc. That is the rule everywhere there is tourist travel.

We have as criterions the splendid financial and social successes of all Southern hotels which have golf courses, athletic parks, and playgrounds. Wilmington possesses advantages over most of these places because of its accessibility from the great centers of population, our rail and water transportation permitting a week-end business so that families of business men can remain here during the season or go at will. Then there are the immediate advantages of telegraph and long distance telephones, added to the superb climatic advantages which this community has to an incomparable degree.

If we would only employ ten per cent. of Wilmington's resources in this profitable local investment to attract visitors to Wilmington, it would add continuously and perpetually to the growth of our city. It would enlarge the opportunities of and open avenues of success to every citizen, and it will stimulate the growth of every line of business in this community, from the trucker to the workman, from the merchant to the banker.

What's the matter with us? Let us get busy? There is every reason why we should get a move on us in this matter. These are only a few of them but we will continue them in our next.

APOLOGY TO SOLOMON.

We said in our haste, and in the manner of a flippant paragrapher, that Solomon said "all men are liars." We prevaricated unintentionally. We did an injustice to David by giving Solomon the credit. So one of our Bible-reading friends writes us. He was kind enough to say that he appreciated our "nothing serious", hit or miss column, but he advises: "In quoting be keerful. Solomon never said it, but David almost took it back after he had said it: 116 Psalm 11—'I said in my haste, all men are liars'." The inference is, after he got over it he took it back."

This incident teaches two things. That we should read the Bible more and remember what we read; that we should not speak in haste, and that if we do so we ought to "take it back."

The Atlanta Journal states that "a Nebraska man lived to be 117 and always drank and smoked." It is also stated that the old fellow was never married, so how do we know but what he could stand drinking and smoking better than a married man?

The Washington Post labors under the delusion that the Democrats tried to "put President Taft in a hole." The fact is, the Democrats found him in a hole and he preferred to pull the hole in after him rather than come out and stand by the Democrats.

The Chicago Record-Herald makes note: "The Begum of Bophal recently went to Geneva, Switzerland, and bought 4,000 watches. She was evidently determined to have a good time, no matter what it cost." We prefer to believe her real object was to watch the King Bee of Bophal and bring him to time.

CURRENT COMMENT.

When Mr Taft starts through the West about September 15th he will be invading an enemy's country as truly as Colonel Bryan did when entering the Eastern States fifteen years ago. Otherwise the Taft trip will not resemble its predecessor in the least.—Charlotte Observer.

Heretofore about all the grapes and other fruit raised around Southern Pines was shipped to the Northern markets. This year the grapes raised in that section have found a new market. Many of them have been shipped to points in Georgia and Florida.—Sanford Express.

Uncertainty as to tariff rates has long been denounced by Republicans as disastrous, but the President, a Republican, prolongs uncertainty till December. Common sense and general information was enough for the President in his study of reciprocity with Canada, but the Democrats who made a wool tariff on such grounds must be denounced for lack of statesmanship.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

The current number of Collier's contains an interesting sketch of the "Tomato Girls of the South". The work of Miss Cromer and the tomato clubs of Aiken is described together with the achievement of Miss Katie Gunter, the champion of last year. The tomato girls are rivaling Jerry Moore and the corn growers in attracting the kind of attention to South Carolina that is most desirable and Collier's continues to give them the publicity that is so necessary in making them helpful in the development of their State.—Columbia State.

The business men of Seattle are alarmed over the recall agitation in that city. Further notoriety and strife growing out of the second mayoralty recall campaign would check the growth of population and trade, they urged in an addres to the people. But the women voters who ousted McGill as mayor and elected Dilling to the vacancy are having their way. Dilling is marked for slaughter. As showing what a slender hold the mayor and other city officers have on their job, the fact is cited that two persons engineered the anti-Dilling movement and secured all of the necessary number of signers to the recall petition. The motive of the two leaders is a mystery, and just why Dilling should go without the formality of charges and a hearing also is mystifying. A puzzled citizen advances the idea that the incident is illustrative of the historical fact that when the people set out on the highway toward anarchy there isn't one of them wise enough to say: "Thus far—here is the danger line. Halt!" And, for a fact, that appears to answer the question. "What's the matter with Seattle?" The recall madness is bound to run its course, like a more prosaic malady. Perhaps now is as good a time as any and Seattle the ideal place for an object lesson in the beauties of the Oregon fetich. For one thing, Seattle's experience may cause Arizona to take notice.—Washington Post.

WILL DECLINE PROPOSITION

Offer of City Will Not be Accepted by Bondholders for Sewerage Co. Matter Up Tuesday—Interview.

The City Council has no matter of greater importance before it than the sewerage question, which has been hanging fire for two or three years, and it is most likely that some settlement may be reached within the next few weeks, possibly at the meeting Tuesday. It was learned yesterday that the bondholders of the Wilmington Sewerage Co., will decline the counter proposition of the city for the purchase from them of the existing plant. It is possible, however, that they will agree to the proposal that if the city elects to accept the third proposition of the committee, that the value of the existing plant be submitted to arbitration.

Iredell Meares, Esq., attorney for the bond holders, stated yesterday that the formal reply to the counter proposition submitted by the city would probably be made at the regular weekly meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Meares says that the following is the last statement which he expects to give out relative to the matter:

"The counter proposition by the city to purchase the Wilmington sewer plant will be declined. The propositions made by the company still remain open. One of these was to sell the plant at $160,000; another, was to sell at a price fixed by arbitration. These may be eliminated as the city has not the available funds to buy. The one under consideration is briefly this:

"We will build a completed sewer system, extending it where water mains are laid, and, for the cost of the new work and the valuation of the present plant at $160,000, we will issue the sewer company's bonds, payable in forty years, drawing 5 per cent. interest, which we estimate will aggregate about $350,000. Then, having done this by the plans and under the supervision of an engineer mutually selected, we will sell the plant to the city in fee, subject to the bonded indebtedness proposed, but freed of all other encumbrances, upon the condition that the city pay the interest on the bonds and, after five years, $10,000 per annum on the principal.

"What does it mean to the city? Let us consider certain facts. The city will have to remove its water intake. It is criminal negligence to allow it to remain where it is now located. That seems conceded. Its removal will take all of the unexpended balance of the $500,000 voted for sewerage and water works. The city, then, is without means to build an independent sewerage system. We need a sewerage system. Health and comfort require it. If the people under present conditions, were asked to vote bonds for the purpose, the proposition would float, like a Summer cloud, far out to sea. But here is a proposition by which we can get sewerage for the city. No immediate outlay by the city is to be made. The income from the plant, which the city takes, can be made to pay the interest on the bonds, and liquidate the debt. No individual would decline such a proposition. Why should the city, without a sufficiently large system and without the means to provide it, haggle about a valuation of the present plant when it is to be absorbed into the whole at an aggregate total sum? If I am willing to buy two mules at $300 for both, what care I that the owner values each at $150, while I value one at $100 and the other at $200. The total sum is the same. Suppose for argument's sake, though it is not conceded, in buying the whole plant, when completed, we should pay $40,000 more for the present plant than we think it is worth, if we bought it for cash and had the money to build additional sewers—why, the excess is distributed over forty years, while by the immediate building of the system, we save thousands of dollars annually to our citizens, in cost to remove night soil, to say nothing in the private expense of sickness, and, as Dr. Nesbitt estimates, the city itself, will save by an enlarged sewer system at least $10,000 annually in the reduced expenses of the health department.

"The sewer plant at the proposed valuation of $160,000, particularly as the owners do not receive cash for it, but incorporate it in a plan by which they furnish $190,000 more money to enlarge the system, is not excessive. It is not unfair. Some consideration is due to investors in the city. It comprises 34 miles of sewers, mains and laterals, and the price proposed represents only $4,706 per mile; whereas informal estimates by engineers for the building of an entire system is far in excess of these figures. It is efficient. No one has condemned it who knows. Today, after the test of ten years, it is about the only sanitary thing in the city of a public character. It is working satisfactorily.

"In three or four years, as the result of immediate building, we would save any excess in the supposed overvaluation of the plant.

"Self-evidently the proposition should be accepted. Do you doubt it? Then consider some further facts. The city would pay in the first five years, interest on bond issue (say $350,000, 5 per cent.) the sum of $17,500 per annum. The present gross income of the sewer company is about $7,000. The city by a sewer system would save, says Dr. Nesbitt, $10,000. These two items, income from present plant and expenses saved, without an additional sewer connection to increase the income, would be sufficient to pay the interest and make the acceptance of the proposition worth while. But, while the present system has only about 1,000 connections, it affords opportunity for about 2,500, which the company cannot, but the city, if it owned the plant, could compel. The larger system, if our proposition is accepted, will afford 5,000 connections. These connections at $6.00 each would bring to the city an income of $30,000. The city for the first five years will have only the interest to pay. Let us assume, during that period only 3,000 connections. Here would be the result:

"Income—Income to city, 3,000 connections at $6.00, $18,000 per year, or for five years, $90,000; saved, as Dr. Nesbitt estimates at $10,000 per year, expense health department, five years, $50,000; total income and saving, $140,000.

Outlay—City pays annual interest, $17,500 per year, for five years, $87,500; superintendent, $1,200 per year, five years, $6,000; foreman $900 per year, five years, $4,500; laborers (two) $1,200, for five years, $6,000; total outlay, $104,000. Total saved to the city in five years $36,000.

Now, after five years the city will have to pay in interest $17,500 and $10,000 per year on principal. We can easily assume by that time there will be 5,000 connections. Here would be the result:

Income—Annual income, 5,000 connections at $6.00, $30,000; saved in sanitary expense as Dr. Nesbitt estimates annually, $10,000. Total annual income and saving, $40,000.

Outlay—Annual interest, $17,500; annual payment on principal, $10,000; Expense superintendent, $1,200; expense assistant, $900; expense two laborers, $1,200. Total outlay per annum, $31,800. Net gain to the city annually, $8,200.

Of course, as the city pays each year, after the first five years, its interest obligation each subsequent year would be reduced in proportion to amount paid.

These figures, you say, are estimates; so they are, but, if you will investigate you will find they are approximately correct.

But, you say, if they are approximately correct, why don't your clients build a system as an investment? My answer is; that it is exactly what they suggested, as a result of a conference in Philadelphia; provided the city would contract with the company to adopt it as the public system and use its police power to compel connections. My advice to them was that the city had no legal power to compel the citizens to connect with a sewer operated by a private corporation; thereupon, we resolved upon the plan of building and selling to the city, subject to the corporation's bond issue, so as to vest the fee simple title to the plant in the city, which could then exercise its power to compel the public to use it.

If the city Council has any better plan, let them propound it; if not, the sooner they accept the proposition of the sewer company, the quicker will the city be provided with a larger system of sewerage to the health and convenience of citizens and the enhancements of property valuations in the unsewered sections of the city. Not only do I believe the plan proposed will provide us immediately with a system of sewerage, commensurate with present needs, but its income will be sufficient to pay off the encumbrance gradually and enough to to provide for its extension.

"We voted several years since $500,000 for sewers and waterworks. Nobody calculated the cost. Well, we didn't vote enough—that's all. We have expended $378,000 for waterworks and, although our doctors advise us not to drink it and the city health department recommends us to boil it, we have a fine equipment, no doubt, and did not spend it uselessly. Ordinarily waterworks for cities of this size cost $600,000 to $700,000. We can, within the id'e funds now in bank, heretofore voted and bonds issued, obtain water by deep wells or, with additional funds, go "higher up" the Cape Fear river. Then we will not have paid any great sum for water. This done, the sewerage question can be settled by the acceptance of the plan offered by the owners of the present plant as above outlined. There is nothing complicated, serious or great about either question. Complications arise largely from the mysticism of one's own mind and the irresolution of one's own will. In fact, both problems are simple of solution, if we substitute action for talk, and, if we are to go without extended sewerage and continue to drink colon bacilli, let it be so decided.

"My clients, appreciating that their interests are somewhat involved with the city, have offered to contribute the bringing about of better health conditions, but they write me under date of August 21st, as follows:

Reply to Proposition.

"'As we said to you at Wilmington, we do not see any occasion to press this matter upon the city. We think we have gone to the limit of reasonableness in endeavoring to adjust the situation. The stockholders of the company, after carrying the plant for nearly eleven years at a loss to themselves in that they have paid the interest on the bonded indebtedness to January first, finally defaulted or the company did, on January first, on its interest installments and turned the property over to the bondholders.

"'The bondholders under present conditions can operate the property and make upon it about 2 per cent. on their bonds, while a greater appreciation by the public of the system and the constant additional connections, which are being made, lead us to believe that in a few years (while in the meantime receiving a small rate of interest on their investment) the bondholders may reasonably expect, without suffering any loss in the meantime, to receive an interest of from 4 to 6 per cent. on their investment.

"'We regret that the city has not met our proposition in a broader way, and we leave to you the manner of conveying our declination of its proposition to us and the transmission to the Council of our views in such manner as you may deem proper.

'GEORGE WATSON,

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Questions of Free Ferry Between Wilmington and Brunswick Will be Considered by Officials of City and Counties.

One of the most important conferences to the commercial and other interests of the community within the year will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the County Commissioners of New Hanover at the Court House. Reference is to the meeting of officials of this county, city and those of Brunswick to consider the question of a free ferry over the Cape Fear to Brunswick, authority for which was given by a special act of the Legislature of 1910.

All citizens of New Hanover and Brunswick are invited to the conference and it is sincerely hoped that there will be such a manifestation of public interest in the enterprise that the officials will be encouraged to act at the earliest possible moment. From its frequent publication the public is well advised of the provisions of the enabling act of the Legislature and it is now squarely up to the commissioners of New Hanover and Brunswick and the city of Wilmington. A gentleman of keen observation and insight remarked yesterday that this question of a free ferry between Wilmington and New Hanover is one of the most important questions considered by the officials of the county in a generation; that the toll ferry had been an impediment to commerce and the relations that should exist between the sister counties for more than a hundred years. The toll ferry has also been an obstacle in the way of the completion of the Wilmington to Charlotte Highway, which would be worth thousands of dollars to the city and seaside resorts and to the territory through which the proposed route would pass. The upper counties are beginning to wake up to the importance of this highway and are manifesting a disposition just now to do their part. The conference Monday should be largely attended and action should be taken as speedily as possible to remove a barrier which has long been in the way of progress for Wilmington and Brunswick county.

The meeting will be held at the request of the New Hanover Board of County Commissioners, which is ready and waiting to bear its portion of the expense, 35 per cent. It is believed that the Councilmen would be willing to pay the city's portion of the expense, also 35 per cent., as soon as Brunswick county, which is to pay only 30 per cent., is ready. It is understood that the main question with Brunswick county is how to raise the revenue, as no provision for this was made in the bill. This and other questions will be threshed out at the conference at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

FORM OF BOND AND COUPON

Adopted by County Commissioners for the $50,000 Bond Issue Recently Voted—Hammocks Suicide Discussed.

For the purpose of formally adopting the form of the bond and coupon for the $50,000 bond issue for roads and bridges recently sold to the Wilmington Savings & Trust Co., the Board of County Commissioners held a special session yesterday at noon with Chairman Duncan, McEachern presiding and in attendance were Commissioners Divine, Metts, Kerr and Vollers. Mr. John Haar, the clerk; County Attorney Marsden Bellamy, County Treasurer H. McL. Green, and Mr. Chas. E. Taylor, Jr., president of the trust company.

The resolution was read by County Attorney Marsden Bellamy, after which it was unanimously adopted. The usual form of bond and coupon is provided, the only difference is that it is not as long as some. The bonds are for $50,000 and run for 25 years at 4 1-2 per cent. interest. The money which the county will receive from the sale of the bonds will be used for roads and bridges. Chairman McEachern was authorized to secure lithograph bonds in accordance with the resolution. When the bonds have been prepared they will be turned over to the Wilmington Savings & Trust Co., which will pay over the money. County Treasurer H. McL. Green filed with the Commissioners his bond in the sum of $75,000, 50 per cent. more than the bond issue, with Messrs. J. V. Grainger, H. C. McQueen and Chas. E. Taylor, Jr., as surety. The bond was accepted.

County Attorney Marsden Bellamy discussed with the Commissioners the rumors which have been in circulation relative to the reported suicide on the trestle across Banks Channel, Wrightsville Beach, Wednesday midnight. He said that as any number of people seemed to think the county should order a thorough investigation he took the matter up with Chairman McEachern on Friday, who asked that it be brought to the attention of the board at the special meeting. Mr. Bellamy stated for the information of the board that he advised Sheriff S. P. Cowan on Friday that in view of the widespread talk it might be well for him to make an investigation. This Sheriff Cowan did, Mr. Bellamy said, and the officer reported that he talked with several persons and that he was satisfied from his conversation with one man who is supposed to have seen the three men on the trestle Wednesday midnight, that the suicide theory is correct. Mr. Bellamy agreed with the Commissioners that they could not act in the matter; but it was suggested at the meeting that any investigation of a matter of the kind should be made through the sheriff's office, if at all. The meeting adjourned at 1 o'clock.

COLORED PEOPLE MEET HERE

Fifteenth Annual Meeting of Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission Convention—Embraces Many States

One of the biggest and most important colored organizations to meet in Wilmington in some years is the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission Convention, which will meet in 15th annual session at the Central Baptist church, corner Seventh and Red Cross streets, Wednesday of this week and continue through Sunday. Rev. G. W. Moore, D. D., is the pastor of the church and he has been busy for several weeks making arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, about 800 in number.

It will be one of the most important meetings the organization has ever held. The pastor of the church extends to the white people of the city a most cordial invitation to attend the meeting. The address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Smith. The pastor says that besides the reports and regular business of the convention all civil questions pertaining to the welfare of the race will be discussed. A contrast between the old and new South will be considered and advice given accordingly.

The convention was organized in the Shiloh Baptist church, District of Columbia, December 16th, 1897, by delegates from North Carolina, Virginia, District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England States. Lott Carey, whose name the convention bears was born a slave in Charles City, Va., went to Richmond when a young man; was converted and joined the First Church. Carey attended a school and became what was then called an educated colored man. He was commissioned to preach the Gospel. His name gave inspiration to the organizers of the convention and yet moves the churches to support its work. When this year's record of the convention shall have closed about $40,000 will have been given for the work, which is mainly in sending missionaries to Africa. Five missionaries have served in Africa employed by the convention and they have reported 2,100 converts baptized by them. The convention has five missionaries in Africa now; three others in the United States and two died on the field.

What is considered a "golden link" in the convention system is the Woman's Auxiliary, which was organized with less than a score of women in Philadelphia when the convention met there in Holy Trinity church in 1891. The few members paid in less than $50, now the auxiliary has more than 100 well organized societies in the churches composed of intelligent women and their day at the annual convention is always looked forward to with interest by the men as well as the women. Last year the auxiliary turned over to the general convention $1,000 and will turn over more this year, it is said.

Pastor Moore expects about 500 delegates from nearly every part of the country to attend the convention, and there will probably be 300 who are not delegates, but come to the meeting through the interest they have in the work.

APPOINTED TRAFFIC CHIEF.

Mr. Henry H. Grimes With Local Offices of Southern Bell Co.

Mr. Henry H. Grimes, a gentleman of wide experience in the field, has been appointed traffic chief of the Wilmington district of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co., and will have charge of the lines of the company so far as they pertain to operation in the eight counties of which Mr. Steven D. Lucas is the commercial superintendent. The addition of Mr. Grimes to the local force of the Southern Bell should do much toward improving the service. He has been with the company in such centres of traffic as Hamlet, Darlington, Orangeburg and other points and is eminently well qualified for the duties of the new and important position to which he has been called here.

STILL SEARCHING FOR BODY

Letter Left by Supposed Suicide Given Out by Mr. J. A. Rowe, Who Spent Day at Hammocks. Tells of Tragedy.

Yesterday was uneventful in the search for the body of Mr. Mat R. Walker, who is supposed to have committed suicide on the trestle over Banks Channel at Wrightsville Beach, Wednesday midnight, except that for a short time relatives and friends were encouraged to believe that an object observed in the ocean off Lumina was the body of the young man. Investigation disclosed that it was a box.

Mr. J. A. Rowe, a brother-in-law, who was with Mr. Walker at the time of the tragedy, returned to the city yesterday from Burgaw, his home, whither he went Thursday morning early to inform relatives of the death of the young man, and who was kept at home on account of the illness of his wife. Mr. Rowe spent most of the day at the Hammocks and returned to Burgaw on the evening train. He expects to return here today or tomorrow.

The young lady on Wrightsville Sound, who is said to have been engaged to Walker, said in an interview with a newspaper man yesterday that when she was her fiance last, about 12 hours before the reported tragedy, that he was bright and cheerful and apparently looked forward with pleasure to their engagement for the afternoon at 6 o'clock. This engagement Mr. Walker did not keep, and she did not see him again.

Mr. Rowe came back to the city late in the afternoon on his way to Burgaw. He said that he engaged two persons to remain on watch for the body of Mr. Walker. The letter which Mr. Walker is said to have written to Mr. Rowe and handed to him on the trestle on the night of the tragedy, was seen yesterday by a Star representative and the following is a copy: "Mr. J. A. Rowe.

"My Dear Bro.:—My troubles are more than I can bear. I have deceived you and not only you, the innocent little girl. Oh, God! Hell will take me up, I cannot stand it any longer. I will end my life as it is no pleasure to me Tell my darling girl she was too nice to me. I am not worthy of her. Goodbye, "Your brother,

"M. R. WALKER."

Inclosed with this letter was a letter to Walker from a girl at Garland. Mr. Rowe would not give out the contents of this letter. It was stated by one who read it on the night of the tragedy that it purported to be from a girl who reminded him of his promise to marry her, etc. Mr. Rowe said that Walker had reference in his letter to the girl at Garland.

As soon as the tragedy occurred Wednesday night Mr. Rowe walked across the trestle to Wrightsville Sound, where he was met by an automobile he had ordered and brought on to the city, arriving at 3 o'clock. He went away on the 3:40 o'clock train, therefore no statement from him as to the suicide of his brother was obtained until yesterday. His version of the tragedy is substantially as follows:

"Mr. Walker and Mr. Nick Stokes and myself were in the city at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday and it was the understanding when we parted that we were to meet again at the Hammocks or at the beach. Mr. L. Turner, S. S. McDaniels and myself left the city on the 9 o'clock car and went to the cottage owned by Mr. McDaniels, Mr. Luther Register and myself. We went to the bungalow and opened it and sat on the piaza and talked a few minutes, when McDaniels suggested that we go to the Oceanic Hotel, which we did, walking across the trestle. After spending a short time there we caught a car coming toward the bungalow. Instead of catching the local we caught the express, not thinking. When we got to the trestle we asked the conductor to stop and he informed us that he did not stop until after he got across the sound. Turner and myself got off at Wrightsville Sound and caught next car back to the Hammocks. McDaniels came on to the city.

"We got off at the pumping station and when the car passed by I saw Mr. Walker standing on the end of the trestle, near the telephone pole. I said, 'Hello, Mat, is that you?' He replied, 'Yes, I have been looking for you. Come down here; I have got something to show you.' I suggested to Mr. Turner that we go down and see what he had to show us. As we approached, Walker walked out on the board walk alongside the trestle, some little distance. In walking off he said that he was awfully hot and wanted to cool off. He sat down on the south side of the trestle, on the boardwalk, with his feet hanging down toward the water. I walked up and asked him what he had to show me.

"He replied that he had a letter he wanted me to see. I took the letter and walked a few steps to a light so I could see the letter, which was addressed to M. R. Walker.

"I was in the act of pulling the letter out of the envelope when I heard a pistol fire behind me. I wheeled around and toward Walker, just in time to see his body fall into the water. He was sitting down at the time he shot himself. I saw his hat floating on the water and Turner and myself lay flat down on the side of the trestle, but could not see anything which resembled a body."

Asked about the life insurance Walker is reported to have carried with Mr. Rowe as beneficiary, Mr. Rowe said that he did not know the young man had the insurance until he saw it in the papers; that he thought the policies had been cancelled. He said that he did not know much about Walker's insurance, however. The only policy he knew him to have at the time of his suicide was one with the Woodmen of the World for $2,000. His mother, Mrs. Walker, who resides near Burgaw, was named as the beneficiary in this policy, he said. Mr. Rowe said that he did not care to discuss the insurance feature at this time, but that he would give out a full and complete statement on this through Mr. Croom, of Burgaw, on Monday, Mr. Croom, he said, being familiar with the insurance the young man carried on his life.

Mention has been made previously to the effect that it was reported that Walker had life insurance to the amount of $30,000, at least one-third of which was made payable to the young man's estate, later assigned to Mr. Rowe.

In an interview yesterday the young lady, who is said to have been engaged to Mr. Walker, the marriage to take place in the Fall, said that Mr. Walker was to see her last on Tuesday night, when he appeared to be bright and cheerful, talked with interest and enthusiasm of the plans for their approaching marriage and frequently referred to his bright prospects. She saw him again Wednesday about noon and talked to him. There was nothing in his manner or speech to indicate that he was not still in that cheery mood. He made an engagement to accompany her home from the city late in the afternoon. However, he told the young lady that if he did not appear in time for the engagement for her to go on without him, as he might precede her and talk to her mother until she came home. He did not keep the engagement and she just supposed that he had gone down ahead of her. However, she never saw him again and was horrified to learn the next morning of his reported suicide.

Mr. Rowe telephoned from the beach yesterday afternoon before returning to Burgaw that he would pay a reward of $500 for the recovery of the body of the young man and it is expected that this reward will bring out a large number of searchers, as news of the reward was given out at the beach yesterday afternoon.

CONCERTS AT LUMINA

Two Delightful Programmes There Afternoon and Night Today

The programmes for the Lumina concerts this afternoon and night promise two of the most delightful entertainments of the season. Too much can hardly be said in praise of the general tone and character of these entertainments at Lumina, and today especially offers a rare opportunity for the Lumina patrons to enjoy some of the best productions that the music world affords.

The special feature for the afternoon concert is a cornet solo by Mr. Claude Elam. Those who have heard Mr. Elam before, feel sure of the merits of his performance on this instrument, and it is safe to say that his selection this afternoon will be one of much interest. Among other numbers on the afternoon programme, are a medley overture called "Summer Days," by Arr. Recker; "Morning, Noon and Night," by von Suppe, and the "Woodland Whispers," by Czibulka; while the night programme offers among its numbers such great masterpieces as "Under Southern Moonlight," by Allen; "Ill Pagliacci," by Leoncavalo, and "Zampa," by Herold. A clarinet solo, entitled the "Deep Cellar," will also be produced for the night concert, by Mr. Chas. Bentley, a member of the Lumina orchestra. Mr. Bentley is quite an excellent musician, and his rendition of this selection will no doubt be well worth the hearing It is expected that very large crowds will attend these concerts today.

STREET WORK PROGRESSING

Laying of Vitrified Brick in Three Places—Storm Sewers

City Engineer F. F. Pillett stated yesterday that the street work is progressing very nicely now. A delay of some days was caused on account of the failure of brick to arrive on time, but the shipments are arriving now with more regularity. The work of laying vitrified brick on Dock, between Front and Second streets, will be completed early this week and last Thursday a force of hands began preparation for the laying of brick on Second, between Princess and Chesnut streets. Brick is used on these two blocks owing to the large amount of heavy traffic over them every day. The laying of brick on Red Cross street has progressed to a point near Fourth street. The purpose is to continue the improvement to the railroad bridge.

Storm sewers have already been put in on Church and Ann streets from Front street to the river, this in connection with the preparations for the paving of Front street, work on which is expected to begin in about two weeks.

Funeral of Mr. Northam.

Members of the family returned last night from Goldsboro, where they went to attend the funeral of Mr. N. J. Northam, who died Friday morning at his home on Wrightsville Sound. The interment was in the family burying ground there. Mr. Northam was a native of Wayne county and had many friends in Goldsboro as well as in Wilmington.

NEGRO CONVICT WOUNDED

Ernest Jenkins, Colored, Shot When He Tried to Break Away from Camp on Carolina Beach Road—In Hospital

Ernest Jenkins, colored, who was serving a sentence of two years on the county roads, made a break for his freedom at the camp on the Carolina Beach road when the force was being taken out to begin work yesterday morning, only to be literally filled with shot from the guns of two guards, who fired at him about the same time. He was dangerously wounded but has a chance to recover. It was stated at the hospital at midnight that he was getting along as nicely as could be expected.

Jenkins is a South Carolina negro and was sent to the roads a short time ago for two years. He decided that he would not serve the remainder of his term and made a dash for his liberty. Mr. Tom Stokes, the foreman of the gang, shot at the negro with his pistol, but did not hit him. Guard Wagstaff then opened fire with his shot gun about the same time another guard, whose name was not learned, took a crack at the fleeing negro. He fell, seriously wounded. One shot passed entirely through the negro's jaw and another penetrated his head and had not been located yesterday afternoon. Several shots penetrated other parts of the body. The negro was hurried to the hospital, where he is being given attention. Soon after he was taken to the institution he was seen and examined by Dr. W. D. MacMillan, county superintendent of health, who reported to Chairman Duncan McEachern, of the Board of County Commissioners, that he could not tell yet just how serious the man is wounded.

"Boil your water." That has become almost a slogan in Wilmington, but this city has not been alone in hearing this advice, given by medical men, who desired to benefit humanity. The great harm that can come through contaminated water has been told time and time again to the people. Now it is about to be pictured to them, and, naturally, the impression will go deeper and be more lasting. These pictures are also to be of the ever entertaining moving picture order, and they will be flashed on the screen at the Bijou tomorrow, being one of the big features of an all-star bill to be presented at this popular place tomorrow. By special effort and at extra cost, the big film called by the very suggestive name of "Boil Your Water" was contracted for last week and will be offered tomorrow. One interesting spectacle is the germ that causes typhoid fever. This particular germ is magnified some 40,000 times and it is clearly shown on the big screen. Other germs are also shown. Every one in Wilmington ought to see this great film, and every one who can possibly do so should be certain to be at the Bijou tomorrow to behold it. The film will only be presented this one day, and it will be given as an additional feature of the usual giant and superb Bijou daily programme.

DAY OF ACTIVITY IN COTTON

Early Reaction Followed Sharp Rally Which Carried New Crop Positions Into High Ground. The Bull Support.

New York, Aug. 26.—An early reaction in the cotton market was followed by a sharp rally which carried new crop positions into new high ground for the movement and the market closed steady at a net decline of three points to an advance of four points, right after the call on overnight buying orders which had evidently been attracted by the firmness of yesterday.

Liverpool cables were about as due and private crop reports continued unfavorable, but there was a good deal of realizing on the early advance, general trade reports were considered against the market. Houston reported big receipts of new crop cotton for the day and the market during the middle of the morning eased off to a net loss of about 8 to 10 points. At this level there was a renewal of bull support, and prices worked up very rapidly from the lowest with December advancing from 11.54 to 11.70, or to a net gain of about 7 points. The close was a shade off from the best under realizing. August contracts fluctuated between 12.90 and 13 cents, closing at 12.99, or one point net higher.

Active new crop positions were one point higher to one point lower, on final bids. Crop reports covering Mississippi and Louisiana, published by a prominent local trade paper showed considerable deterioration in the condition of the crop in those two States for the month and this tended to increase the nervousness of the scattered short interest over the probable showing of the September condition figures next Friday. Increased curtailments was reported in domestic mill circles, price reductions were certain makes of cotton goods; there was some nervousness over the labor situation in Western railroad circles and Paris dispatches reflected uneasiness over the Morocco situation, but the market appeared to be dominated by the fear of a bullish official report, notwithstanding the rapidly increasing new crop movement.

STOCK MARKET STIEL LOSING

Weakness Set in at Very Outset Yesterday—Day's News Was Mainly Unfavorable—Prices of Stocks Falling.

New York, Aug. 26.—For the sixth consecutive day and with practically no interruption for the past month, prices of stocks fell again today. Weakness set in at the very outset and before the brief session was far advanced the number of low records for the year was general as to embrace not only the active group, but practically all classes of securities. The industrials shared more than ordinarily in the declines, with a renewal of pressure upon steel.

The day's news was mainly unfavorable, and probably the most potent factor was the more acute stage in the threatened railroad strike. The attitude of the railroad employes is seemingly no less determined than that of the officials and a widespread strike now seems but a matter of hours.

The foreign situation, judging from the condition of the European markets, is in no wise improved, London sending over a very complete list of lower prices with especial heaviness in the Harrimans and Steel.

The weekly statements of the mercantile agencies reported disappointing trade conditions with an increasingly conservative tendency on the part of the buyers.

Curtailment in the manufacture of cotton goods continues in the New England district, where reductions in prices of finished materials were made in the hope of stimulating demand.

For the first time in four weeks actual loans of the clearing house banks failed to show a contraction.

Bonds were heavy, with total sales par value amounting to $906,000. United States 2s advanced 1-8 on call on the week. Total sales 316,700 shares.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

New York, August 26.—The new prices made on prints quickened the demand. The largest concerns booked very substantial orders and a continuance of this is looked for. There was a steady demand for narrow print cloths and large transactions were reported. The jobbers did a good trade during the morning. The primary cotton goods market was fairly active for Saturday and prices were steady with here and there an upward tendency noted.

Ambergris.

The essential characteristic of ambergris is the penetrating and peculiar odor, similar to that of musk. It is so powerful and so illusive in its perfume that the most minute quantity when mingled with any other strong scent is still perceptible.

Fighting Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Cal., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c. at R. R. Bellamy.

named Wilkes, who would testify that he saw the two machine loads of boys as well as Beattie and his wife, but no vehicle or person along the road at that hour. By his testimony it is apparently hoped to quash Beattie's story of the bearded highway man. But Wilkes, as well as Mrs. Binford, mother of Beulah, who were to have been called to the stand, were not summoned today as Detective Scherer monopolized almost the entire afternoon session.

The time of their appearance now is uncertain, as the defense gave notice that on Monday it would begin a cross-examination of Scherer's testimony, particularly with reference to his alleged conversations with Beattie after the murder and prior to his arrest.

The testimony of Scherer, inasmuch as it so frequently introduced the name of the Binford girl excited interest on the part of the prisoner and his usual nonchalance gave way to a determined tiger-like crouch over the bench as he strained forward to catch every syllable uttered.

Not infrequently did he fidget about nervously in his seat. Occasionally and with a suddenness that sometimes startled his counsel, Beattie put both his arms around the neck of Harry M. Smith, Jr., the lawyer beside him, and insisted on continued whispering. Once this whisper was audible. "I didn't say that," he protested to his lawyer as Scherer talked on

A smile often broke on the face of the prisoner, but it apparently was a forced smile. The intense concentration of his attention on Scherer's testimony was in direct contrast to the case he manifested at noon when he stood with the jury on the lawn quietly observing the once blood-soaked automobile.

Scherer sat calmly in the witness chair setting forth a narrative of his activity on the case from the start, saying in part:

"Mr. Beattie asserted to me that while bending over the brakes the highway man had fired. He said that Mrs. Beattie dropped over to the right on his left shoulder, that the man stepped to the rear of the machine and meeting Beattie in the rear, the man struck a grazing blow.

"In the meantime his wife had fallen, he said, to the front floor of the car. Beattie said he held his wife on the left seat and took her to Mr. Tom Owen in that position, driving the car with one hand I asked Mr. Beattie where the man then went. Up the road or in the woods, he answered uncertainly. I asked Beattie about his relations with Beulah Binford and as to whether his wife knew that Beulah Binford was back in Richmond, and he said merely that she did He stated that he and his wife had not quarreled then and that they never had had a cross word."

"Was there anything said about his wife knowing the relations between Beattie and Beulah Binford?" asked Prosecutor Wendenburg

"I asked Mr. Beattie if his wife knew about his relations with Beulah Binford before the marriage and he said yes."

It was at this point that Scherer testified he had asked Beattie anout his physical condition and the court by agreement with the prosecuting attorney, arranged to take up that question on a separate occasion.

Court adjourned till Monday.

Although the case has been in progress six days, neither Paul Beattie, the cousin, nor Beulah Binford, "the other girl" in the case, have been called to the stand and spectators were guessing today which would testify first.

Since the trial started, the Binford girl has remained in jail at Richmond with fifteen miles between her and the man who stands accused of committing the crime for her sake. She said in an interview recently that she hoped never to see him again, and Beattie has not spoken her name since the indictment.

Muddy roads and balky automobiles delayed the arrival of the court and witnesses and the day's session did not begin until 10:35 A. M.

Judge Watson rose from behind a big vase of flowers which adorned his desk, smelled them a moment and rapped sharply with his gavel. He appealed to "the Virginia gentlemen" present to be tolerant of the heat and keep their coats on in deference to the women present.

Henry Clay Beattie again sat beside his father, eagerly reading a morning paper's verbatim account of yesterday's testimony.

LIPPINCOTT JEWELS STOLEN

Summer Residence of Wealthy Philadelphia Publisher Burglarized

Newport, R. I., Aug. 26.—A daring theft of jewels from the Summer home here of J. B. Lippincott, the wealthy Philadelphia publisher, was reported by the police of this city today. They estimate the value of the stolen property at $2,000. No clue to the robbers has been found, but it is suspected that agang of profesional burglars, using a fast motor boat, committed the crime and the police think the gang may be the same one that recently made daring jewel robberies at Bar Harbor, Maine, and Narragansett Pier.

According to the police, the robbery occurred Thursday. On that day the Lippincott family attended the yacht races of the Conanicut Yacht Club while their servants watched the sport from the front of the house, leaving the rear unguarded. The burglars had no difficulty in entering the house. For an hour, at least, they worked undisturbed, and according to the police showed great discrimination in their selection of jewels. They escaped unseen and the robbry was not discovered until evening. The police have sent throughout the country circulars describing the jewels and announce that a liberal reward, amount not stated, has been offered for the return of the valuables.

NEAR RIOT OVER TIP

Negro Bell Boys at Indian Springs, Ga. Made Trouble

Jackson, Ga., Aug. 26.—All danger of a race riot as a result of the killing of Jesse Singley, aged 22, and J. R. Connor, a deputy sheriff, who were shot from ambush near here last night, is believed tonight to have passed.

The ambuscade grew out of a quarrel over the division of a tip between two hotel porters at Indian Springs, a Summer resort, near here. The negroes resented the hotel clerk's attempt to settle the difficulty and one of them, securing a shot gun, terrorized every body in the hotel. Later they escaped in the woods. While a posse of which Singley and Connor were members was passing along a road en route to the house where the two negroes were believed to have gone, several shots were fired at them from the roadside, Singley falling mortally wounded and Connor was shot through the left leg. Their assailants made off through the woods when their fire was returned.

News of the tragedy sperad quickly and for a time it was feared that the negro hotel porters, who were believed to have been Singly's slayer, would be lynched if caught.

Dr. Stiles himself is a most interesting speaker, and he has delivered several addresses here that have been hard with much intrest by large audiences.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 26.—C. K. Dunlap, traffic manager of the Harriman lines in Texas, in a statement today announced that the Liverpool cotton bill of lading agreement would be signed by all of the Harriman Texas lines. Cotton dealers and bankers objected seriously to the Liverpool method, he said, but the railroads have found it necessary to sign if they would do business. Formal announcement has not yet been made by other lines in Texas.

English cotton buyers have agreed not to buy cotton except under the Liverpool system.

Mr. W. T. Farris, proprietor of the new "Sanitary Bakery," has now removed to his handsome new quarters at 121 South Front street, where he is better than ever prepared to handle his large and constantly increasing business. The new bakery is now open to the inspection of everyone interested in seeing just how the "staff of life" is made in an up-to-date and cleanly bakery. All new and modern machinery has been installed and a visit to the place will prove not only interesting but quite satisfying. Flour is sifted through an electric sifter into a large bin which is protected from flies and dust according to the most approved and sanitary methods. In addition to this the Sanitary Bakery claims the proud distinction of having the largest and most complete bake oven in the State. Modern machinery and all-white bakers is a powerful appeal to the bread consuming public and that is just what Mr. Farris offers. Mr. F. W. Hilderbrandt, of Richmond, the foreman, has been lately with the National Biscuit Co., and is well equipped for his work. He is considered one of the finest Vienna bread and French roll makers in the country. He takes pleasure in showing the points of bread making to all callers.

Mr. W. N. Bitts, of the Clegg Bakery, of Greensboro, has charge of the cake department. He also has had years of experience in baking fancy cakes.

The bakery is sanitary in every respect and all bread, cakes, etc., are kept in show cases; nothing exposed to dust or flies. Farris carries the largest line of fancy cakes, sweetbread, such as coffee cake, butter cake, almond cake, etc., and makes a specialty of quick delivery, three wagons being employed in this service. The bakery has come to be known as the "Home of Honey Bread" and a call this week will be appreciated by the management.

NEW WINTER RESORT PLANNED

Pinewild Staked Off and Laid Out by the Kent Jordan Company in Harnett County—On the Coast Line

(From the Greensboro News.)

By the publication of a special news item from Southern Pines in the papers yesterday to the effect that the Lindley Nursery Company, of this city, had just purchased a large tract of land in Hoke and Cumberland counties to plant apple orchards by reason of developments in that particular section by Mr. Leonard Tufts, a News reporter sought Paul C. Lindley, who returned from that section Friday night, for more particular of the deal.

With Mr. Lindley was found James F. Jordan and Lewis H. Wise, landscape designer, of New York. They had just returned from Harnett county, and when seen were looking over the conveyances passed between the parties on Thursday. What was learned from these gentlemen not only partly confirms the report of a land purchase by the Lindley Nursery Company but relates to a wonderful development of Harnett county in the way of improved farming, the building of a model town, and an influx of new capital, new industries and new citizens, thereby benefitting the whole State.

Mr. Lindley talked of his connection with the matter frankly, interestingly. When shown the news item published he said: "The information is slightly misleading in that I bought the land from the Kent-Jordan Company, and it lies in Harnett county. We bought it not to plant apple orchards, but to raise nursery stock for apples, pecans, mulberries, ornamental trees, shrubs and plants. Our purchase is a mile square, or about 700 acres. It is a part of the historic Dr. McDairmid plantation and originally 18,000 acres granted Dr. McDiarmid's ancestors by the crown of England. This tract forms a part of the 35,000 acre plot of land recently acquired by Congressman Kent, of California, and James F. Jordan, of Greensboro, and being developed by the Kent-Jordan Company. For some time we have been looking for rich black lands to raise nursery stock on and to ship to our Greensboro houses, soil in which to grow plants in the greenhouses."

"Speaking of this months ago Mr. Jordan invited me to pay a visit to this property as a guest and also as an investor. I was much pleased with what I saw, but was not sure the soil was what I needed, though the location and other natural advantages were satisfactory. To make sure, we sent to New York for an expert scientist in tree soils, forestry, etc., and Lewis Wise came out. We spent ten days in a careful and exhaustive test of soils, etc., suitable for such purposes, and upon receiving Mr. Wise's report we closed the deal Mr. Wise in his report said that not only had he found the soil suitable for our purposes, but that upon comparison he found it equal, if not superior, to the best nursery black soil of Michigan, recognized as among the finest in the world.

"We will discontinue our branch nursery at Kernersville, in Forsyth county and will dispose of that holding of 500 acres and transfer all this work to the Kent-Jordan purchase in Harnett. We will ship 12 mules there next week to begin plowing, and a large force of men will be at once put to work ditching, tilling and getting the ground in thorough tilth for next Spring's planting. We will also begin at once shipping this black dirt to Greensboro for our green houses for our plant and flower growth."

Mr. Wise was very frank in stating that his profession took him in all parts of the United States, some of it having been seen under direction of the national conservation bureau car, formerly conducted by Gifford Pinchot. Speaking of his impressions of Harnett county, and of this particular section, he grew more than enthusiastic; he became eloquent, when he said: "In all my experience, I have never seen such a combination, rich soil, healthful topography, with valleys, hills, streams and trees, with all the elements of outdoor sport, such as hunting, fishing, boating, etc. I have often been in your mountain section at work, but never before in this eastern or semi-piedmont-coastal region, and I was greatly surprised and exceedingly interested to find this part of your State absolutely inexhaustible in the capacity for farm and other development. While there I staked out a new town, to be called Pinewild, about midway between Spout Springs and Manchester, on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. The town will cover 200 acres, and every lot will be a small farm almost, so as to preserve the village advantage and beauty. It is a platted that any kind of a building from a $250 camp to a $2,000 residence will feel at home on adjoining lots, each preserving its own individuality, with no cramping." In this way he talked of the place, saying that, as soon as the architects had prepared the plans, the Kent-Jordan Company would begin giving contracts for the construction of public buildings, such as a library, town auditorium and theatre, clubhouse, etc., for the free use of the town; also waterworks and electric plant, sewerage, etc. Mr. Wise leaves tonight for New York, but will return in the next ten days to direct some special landscaping for the Lindley Nursery Company at its home plant at Pomona.

Having heard from Mr. Lindley and Expert Wise, the News representative focused his attention on Mr. Jordan, who had remained silent during the meeting. Mr. Jordan, as Guilford people know, is a man of few words, but much action. He often looks sour, but those who know him well realize that when the outside appears indifferent or tacturn or morose, he is in realiay on the inside just tickled to death with some big project, and it's the tickling that makes him appear glum. As soon as his turn came yesterday, and he wouldn't tell a thing until specific questions were asked, the following very interesting recital, as pieced together from his reply to inquiries, contained the gist of his answers:

"The town Mr. Wise spoke of is to be named Pinewild. Good name. Pines breathing balmy rosin-laden ozone grace the woods, while a tangle of other trees make a wildwood that attracts and hides and supports any quantity of wild animals like deer, bear, fox, o'possum, coons, bears, rabbits and wild fowl like quail, turkeys, plover and grouse, and in the tangled shores of the lakes waterfowl build their nests in season or in the Winter throng the waters in search of food and the sunny Southern Winter clime. Then the waters teem with fish of some game nature at all seasons, Summer, Spring, Winter and Fall. All these things are wild and then there are the ozoned, health-giving pines. What better name than Pinewild could we get? None.

"The town will be built different from anything in the South, and will be especially designed for Winter residence, where people in the icy regions of the North like the wild fowl, may exchange the long dreary months there for the balmy air of Pinewild, and live as cheaply as if they were at home, and enjoy all the delights and privileges of sports in field forest or on the water.

"Everything about the town will be up-to-date, but solid, substantial and without any frills. We are not going to build rapidly so much as well. Having plenty of land, 35,000 acres, we are not going to have a thing cramped. To show this, we have had Mr. Wise to plat off 200 acres to be used exclusively for public town uses. This will include parks, public buildings, town halls, playgrounds, clubhouses, library, churches, schools, etc., all for free use of residents. Then, there will be a modern railroad station built, golf, links, tennis courts, and five miles of the best roads will be constructed at once. For water, there will be a lake of 200 acres. From this lake the town waterworks will proceed and power will be generated for electric lights and power plant and sewerage will be constructed. In the center of this lake will be a minature island covering half an acre of water. This island will be planted in golden twig, willow, red twig willow and ancient Babylonian willow in the midse of which will be a pavillion, music house, etc., where Venetian gondolas will always be waiting to transport the merry or the contemplative from the shore to this beautiful solitude, or to convey moonlight parties on pleasure-bent. It's going to be pretty, and it's going to be nice," he exclaimed, as he banged his desktop and put on his hat and took this means of letting this reporter know that he said all he wanted or intended to say. "I'm much obliged to you for coming to get this matter straight," he said as he disappeared, "and I hope you will print it straight, for I've often had a devil of a time with you newspaper folks, clever as you all try to be." NEGRO SUMMER SCHOOL

National Religious Training School at Durham—Doing Good Work

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Durham, N. C., Aug. 26.—The recent Summer school and chautauqua of the National Religious Training School, of this city, is unprecedented when compared with other Summer schools among negroes. The standard of the institution with a faculty composed of a number of the leading pedagogues of that race—men and women— who are working to make the masses of their race a productive element built upon the basis that make this insitutton a unique movement among negroes. The large number of teachers and preachers who attended were taught the real and practical things to do to make their people appreciate their opportunity in adherring to the teachings of such men and women who are interested in the true uplift of the negro folk. Dr. W. Y. Chapman, of Newark, N. J., one of the greatest preachers in the country, who studied the condition of the negro at first hand and was the guest of Judge Sykes at one of his court's sessions and saw some of the exigencies that created in the mind of the founder of this institution such a needed movement for the negro, with a number of other prominent men of both races from various sections of the country, lectured at the school during its Summer school and chautauqua. Prominent among these lecturers were Dr. Jesse L. Hurlburt, the noted Bible authority; Dr. Jesse C. Massee, of Chattanooga, Tenn., a great pulpit orator and public spirited man; Dr. D. Webster Davis, one of the leading negro lecturers, authors and preachers; Gen. Julian S. Carr, who is admired by the negroes, especially in his city, Durham, and treasurer of the school; Dr. Jesse Johnson, professor of homiletics and apoligetics at Xenia Theological Seminary, Xenia, Ohio; Prof. Kelly Miller, the noted negro mathmetician and author.

Bishop Kilgo, the well-known educator and former president of Trinity College, was given a notable ovation by hundreds of students and negroes of many vocations when he lectured.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c. at R R. Bellamy.

NEW CITY DIRECTORY

The New Wilmington Directory for 1911-12 Published.

The new Wilmington directory for 1911-12 published by the Hill Directory Company is now being delivered to the subscribers. Upon examination it is found that this book is a store of information, and there is no merchant who wishes to reach the people of Wilmington who can afford to be without a copy.

In the front of the book is a new map of the city, which should be of great service to every one. Following that on page 10 is a preface written by the Chamber of Commerce, giving a great deal of useful information and solid facts in connection with the growth of the city.

In the front of the book is contained the General Index and Index to Advertisements, showing the up-to-date and wide-awake merchants of the city.

Following that comes the Miscellaneous Department containing the County, State and United States Government and the different courts and such other information as would be of service to the lawyers and merchants of the city.

Following that comes list of banks, churches, societies and other organizations.

From page 41 to 412 is the Alphabetical Department in which is listed the citizens, merchants, giving their house as well as their business address.

Commencing on page 413, marked by a tab, is a list of the merchants classified under their respective headings. Those in black type indicate those who have patronized the book and given their support to its publication.

You will notice that the book is printed more compactly than the previous issue, thus allowing more names on a page than before. The book shows an increase of 30 pages of new matter and names, thus showing that Wilmington is rapidly increasing in population and business enterprise.

The book is handsomely bound in buff, printed in black making it one of the handsomest volumes that Wilmington has ever had.

The publishers inform us that the Wilmington Directory is not only circulated locally but is to be found in all of the directory files throughout North Carolina, where it is kept in constant use by the general public, in addition to this a copy is sent to all the directory files in the large cities throughout the United States where it is in daily use by the traveling public, thus putting the advantages of Wilmington before the people in a way that nothing else can do.

If there is any new comer or merchant that has not secured a copy of the new Directory he can do so by calling at C. W. Yates & Co., who are the agents in this city.

PERPETUAL MOTION MACHINE

George W. McKinney, Inventor, Is Now Engaged Placing Machinery

(Chester, Pa., Union-Republican.)

George W. McKinney, of 914 Morton avenue, who has already had thirty five contrivances patented, and who has designed seventeen machines, now claims that he has been successful in designing a perpetual motion, self-sustaining power machine, that will astonish the world. The machine is at present under construction on East Sixth street, near Welsh street, and McKinney is confident that it will prove a success.

According to Mr. McKinney, who was interviewed last evening by a representative of The Morning Republican, the new machine will produce power and sustain it through the operation of a weight system. There has been erected at the East Sixth street address a small building of corrugated iron to be used as a power house for the machine. The foundation and platform of the building is of wood. The floor space is 16x16 feet. The tower portion is of steel and will be forty feet high. It is understood that the main part of the machine is six feet square and thirty feet high and that machinery will be working thirty feet in the air. The building and the machine are so constructed that it makes it possible to be taken apart and ready for shipment within two hours' time.

When completed, McKinney's intentions are to place the machine on exhibition at the next World's Fair in San Francisco, Cal., in 1915, and it will undoubtedly be one of the best attractions at the great event. The inventor's attorney has assured him that the invention will mean much to the industrial world.

That Mr. McKinney has great faith in his new idea of the perpetual motion machine can be readily ascertained from his talk last evening. Just when he will have the machine ready for operation has not been learned. Mr. McKinney was born in Rockingham county, N. C., and has resided in the city for a number of years.

MADAM ELDON

Palmistry, phychometry and clairvoyancy, is the talk of the town these days. The wonderful revelations made by her great gift have excited the surprise and widespread comment of her hundreds of visitors, who have left her office filled with amazement, as well as highly pleased with the tidings she has brought them. Not one of her patrons has expressed disappointment or dissatisfaction, and large numbers of representative citizens have called on her as skeptics and left her as admirers of as well as believers in her marvelous power. Scenes in Brooklyn Bridge Crush—Disgraced City—Ominous Labor Situation—New York Sufers From Mosquito.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Aug. 26.—A new function has just been added to the many which the New York police are called upon to perform. Their newest duty consists in teaching politeness to the male inhabitants of the city. The reform has been introduced where it undoubtedly was most urgently needed—at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge. The congestion at this point every evening at the rush hour is unequalled anywhere else in the world and has aroused the anger and disgust of those who have had occasion to witness it. In the rush of the tens of thousands of home-goers for seats in the Brooklyn-bound cars men and women have been trampled upon and frequently serious injuries have occurred. The waiting crowd has swarmed over the cars before they came to a stop and in the mad contest women naturally had little chance to secure seats. Capt. Bourke, who has charge of the police at this point, determined to change this state of affairs. For the past few evenings he has lined up his men and compelled the crowd to wait until the cars came to a stop before attempting to board them and then has given the women first chance to secure seats. As a result, from five to ten thousand women who formerly were compelled to stand in the cars, have obtained seats. The "car hogs" have been too shamefaced to make serious protests and it is believed that a continuance of the present system will result in the abolition of what has always been one of the most disgraceful scenes to be observed in the city.

The business and financial leaders of the country's affairs have been watching with keen and almost painful interest the course of the gigantic strike that for a few days almost paralyzed British industry. When it was announced early in the week that a settlement was in sight there was a feeling of great relief. The interest in the subject here was not inspired wholly by the knowledge that any extended struggle would seriously affect international trade. In even greater measure it was due to the feeling among well informed men that there is grave danger of serious labor troubles in this country and to the fear that a serious controversy on the other side of the Atlantic might stir up similar troubles over here. Railroad managers, while not inclined to talk on the subject for publication, admit privately that if the falling off in net earnings is not checked shortly the roads will face the positive necessity of reducing wages, since the Interstate Commerce Commission has refused to permit an increase of rates. On the other hand, nobody who understands the present temper of the employes believes for a moment that they will submit to a reduction of wages. Their claim is that the increased cost of living has more than absorbed the advances wrung from the roads last year and many of them are urging the formulating of further

Annual Furniture Sale

Eye-Opening Prices---Thursday, Aug. 31

We will put on in full force our Annual September Furniture Sale. As all four former sales, this is a bona fide low priced sale. No faking, no false claims, no misrepresentations to deceive the purchasing public. We are here to stay, to make good and prove every advertised article and price. Three features that should appeal to the honest buyer who is looking for honest goods from reliable home merchants.

First, We have for several seasons brought to our customers unheard of values in samples and special purchases made at the great Furniture Exposition at discounts, which enabled us to sell them to our customers at, and and sometimes below factory price. This year we were fortunate in getting a large number of very choice pieces.

Second. We never allow goods to remain on our floor to get old. We have a complete stock of regular goods which we will dispose of during this sale at actual cost to make room for our new fall stock.

Third. Our buyer has just returned from the Northern markets, where he bought largely of specials to throw in and round up and tone up the stock which will be sold during this sale, with no object of profit making—only to add ginger to the sale and make it a bigger success.

The terms are strictly cash and we trust that purchasers will not embarrass us by asking that these goods be charged at these prices. Arrangements can be made for satisfactory time purchases.

In a paper read before the Academy of Sciences he says that the serum prepared by the Pasteur Institut of Lille has been effective in counteracting the poisonous bites of three kinds of deadly serpents, including the cobra. This serum will save human life if injected into the body in a quantity 15 to 20 times as great as the venom which has been received from tme cobra.

Former Congressman Joseph A. Conroy, of Boston, who holds the position of Russian vice consul at that city, has arrived in Paris after an extensive tour and study of Russia. He is amazed over the possibilities of commercial development in that country, especially in the northeast. "Russia," said Mr. Conroy, "is deplorably misunderstood in the United States. We should commence a campaign of education there dealing with the real Russia—its wealth, its refinement, the delightful character of its people, and we should tell also the story of its wonderful cities. To me the great city of Warsaw with its culture and riches and prosperity was a wonderful chapter."

France will have the biggest sailing vessel in the world. She is to be launched within a few weeks and will be called "la France," like the new steamer being completed for the French line. She will replace as the first sailing ship of the world the huge German sailer Preussen which was lost last year on the English coast. The France will be 393 feet long and her beam will measure 52 feet. Her displacement will be 10,180 tons.

On her five masts will be spread 19,500 square feet of canvas expected to furnish a speed of 17 knots an hour. There will, however, be an auxiliary power of two 1,800-horse-power motors each turning a propeller and designated to give a speed of eleven knots. Besides comfortable accommodations for crew and officers the France will be luxurious in that she will have a finely-appointed salon and fumoir for passengers as well as the officers, while the accommodations for pasengers will include seven large cabins "de luxe." The vessel will be lighted with electricity and will have a central steam heating outfit with radiators. The mammoth ship is the product of a Gironde shipyard. She is built for Rouen shipping masters and will sail between European ports and New Caledonia.

The annual congress of the union railway workers of France which does not, by the way, include the engineers and firemen, proved to be a battle between what is called the revolutionary and reformist wings. The reform element contended broadly for the American idea that strikes should be proclaimed only as a means of actually bettering a condition of the workingman and not used as a pure revolutionary weapon.

Unbiased observers think that the reformists carried the congress and that an attempt will be made to put the railway employes union upon an absolutely non-revolutionary basis and keep it as far as possible from domination by the revolutionary general labor federation. On the other hand, the proceedings showed that the union is split in a serious manner, while the vote against wilful destruction of public property in time of strike indicated that hundreds of delegates failed to register their opinion. An important decision of the congress was to disband as a general union and re-organize into several bodies each one of which will be composed of employes of the different raidroad companies. Each of the new unions will send delegates to a national federation. One of the chief causes of the strife at the convention was the failure of the great railway strike of last year which was marked by a series of outrages against property and which failed largely through the action of M. Briand, who was then prime minister, in calling out the strikers as military reservists.

M. Bennet, who is recognized as one of the leading railway unionists, said: "The French railway workers must realize, as I think many do, that outrages and violence will not aid railway unionism. They must recognize and follow the idea of the American unionist that real progress comes from education and force of numbers."

In London.

London, Aug. 26.—Dumfermline, famed as the burial place of Scottish Kings, is about to inaugurate a town planning scheme to an extent never before attempted. The establishment of a naval base at Rosyth, on the Firth of Forth, is responsible for the enterprise of the older Scottish town.

Britain is building at Rosyth to help her in any possible war with Germany, a naval station, which besides being the most modern will be the largest in the United Kingdom. Already thousands of men are at work laying the foundations of the docks and stations, with which splendid progress is being made and in a few years a permanent staff will be employed in the yards and workshops, keeping the ships of the North Sea fleet in shape to meet any foe from across the water.

Dunfermline is preparing to take possession of this population and claim it for her own. The admirality is naturally encouraging this praiseworthy object. They have no desire to have a city crowded around the gates of what in time will be the chief naval base, from a defensive standpoint, at any rate, and are lending what aid they can to provide homes in the city of Dunfermline for their workmen. Included in the plans is a good street railway system,for Rosyth is five miles distant from the old town, and the men must be taken to and from their work. The street railway, like the other public utilities, will be municipally owned, and cheap rates for workmen will prevail. Dunfermline, therefore, now known chiefly because of its abbey and graves of kings, is about to blossom out into a modern city, and if England and Germany continue to look upon each other as possible foes in a great war, become the home of one of the biggest industrial populations of the Kingdom.

In the past the town has been benefitted much by gifts from Andrew Carnegie, who was born there.

Those who remember the great dock strike of 20 years ago, the leader in which, John Burns, is now a cabinet minister, read with grave concern the recent order of the strike committee to the men to quit work. The strike of 1889 completely paralyzed the port of London, and worse still, drove away trade which has never returned. Antwerp, according to the English view, owes its growth largely to the London strike of that year, and merchants asked themselves what port would benefit from another prolonged strike on the Thames.

The recent strike, too, came at a very inopportune time, when local produce was scarce, on account of the long spell of hot weather and just after the announcement was made that the Port of London Authority, created by an act of Parliament, had adopted plans and would start work early in the coming year on the elaborate scheme which it is hoped will re-establish London as the leading port of the world.

The strike showed that the dockers, teamsters and other workers who handle the goods from the docks, were well organized and could bring work in the port to an absolute standstill should they so desire.

Londoners, who have been in the habit of pointing with pride to the condition of the streets in the metropolis and making a comparison with the streets of other cities, not favorable to the latter, have learned something this Summer of the effect of heat on asphalt pavements. London has this Summer had real Summer weather, extending for a period which Londoners cannot remember to have been exceeded. The effect on the London streets has been an eye-opener to the Britisher. The asphalt, which usually presents a perfectly smooth surface and which in normal Summers can be kept in order at a very slight expense, has taken to curling up and then with the passage of vehicles forming a fine dust and innumerable ruts. Victoria street, one of the best paved in London, has the appearance of a black sea, the asphalt forming rolls and waves, over which the motor cars and motor busses bump unpleasantly.

Certain districts of London are suffering from the "gang" system. Rowdies armed with sticks have been going about assaulting people, with apparently no other object than to amuse themselves. Shoreditch, a working class district, has been the greatest suffered. The police have thus far been unable to put a stop to the rowdyism, although at least one man has been dangerously wounded by the raiders. Usually the streets of London, even in the worst districts, have been quite safe any hour of the night.

With the opening of the first Radium Institute in the world London may be said to have taken the lead in the research of the curative potentialities of the wonderful metal. The institute, which was suggested by King Edward, owes its being to the munificence of Lord Iveagh and Sir Ernest Cassel, who provided the funds for the erection of the building and supplied the radium, which exists here in greater quantity than in any other building in existence. With its opening comes the hope of curing cancer.

Sir Frederick Treves, who is at the head of the medical staff of the institute, asked as to the prospects of curing cancert by radium, replied, "The prospects are good, but we must wait and see." The building contains a dozen cubicles in which patients can be treated. No experiments on living animals will take place in the institute.

A. & M. FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Series of Games for First Half of Coming Season—Outlook for the Farmers' Team This Year.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

West Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 26.—Below is given the 1911 football schedule of the A. & M. college of North Carolina. The first game will not be played until October 7th, one month after the college opens, giving the men ample time to get in first class condition for the opening game:

October 7th—U. S. S. Frankling, at Raleigh.

October 14th—Pending.

October 19th—Bucknell University of Pennsylvania, at Raleigh. (Thursday of Fair Week.)

October 28th—University of Tennessee, at Raleigh.

November 4th—U. S. Naval Academy, at Annapolis.

November 11th—Washington & Lee University, at Raleigh.

November 18th—Wake Forest, at Wake Forest.

November 30th—V. P. I., at Norfolk, Va. (Thanksgiving.)

Games with three colleges never before played by A. & M. in football, are on the schedule this year, viz: Bucknell University of Pennsylvania, the University of Tennessee, and the U. S. Naval Academy. It is expected that the game with the Naval Academy will be one of the very hardest ever player by A. & M., as the Academy teams have always ranked with the biggest elevens in the country, such as Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton, etc.

Washington & Lee will be played this season for the first time in Raleigh. The U. S. S. Franklin team will give A. & M. a hard tussle, as they were only defeated 5 to 0 after a very hard game two years ago.

The Thanksgiving game will, as usual, be played in Norfolk, Va., with A. & M's. greatest rivals for championship honors, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and should be one of the greatest football contests played in the South this Fall, as this game will decide the winner of a series of three games, A. & M. having won last Thanksgiving, and V. P. I. the year before.

New Jersey, which has suffered long and silently from the gibes of the professional and amateur humorists of the New York press on account of the number and ferocity of its mosquitoes has had a chance during the past two months to turn the tables on its detractors. Never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant have the dwellers in Manhattan suffered so greatly from the mosquito pest as during the present Summer. There has been a general tendency to attribute the winged application to an invasion from the Jersey side of the Hudson, but a scientific investigation has led to the conclusion that many at least of the annoyers are home-bred and as a result a demand has arisen for the oiling of the lakes in Central Park and in other parts of the city. One of the results of the prevalence of the mosquito pest has been a shattering of the generally accepted theory that these insects do not fly more than 50 feet above ground, for they have been found in the upper rooms of the tallest hotels and apartment houses as well as in structures of lesser height

Within the past few days Manhattan has added another record to its already long list of the largest, tallest, costliest and various other superlative structures. This time it is the largest single building in the world devoted to the manufacture of beer which has just been completed by one of the big brewing companies. The new stock house, as it is called, has a capacity of 6,230,000 gallons and gives the establishment a capacity for brewing 10,000,000 gallons of beer at once. More than four acres of floor space is occupied by the building and its tanks if placed end to end would form a tunnel high enough for a man to walk through and more than seven miles long. If put into ordinary bottles its contents would form a double line extending from coast to coast. As a striking commentary upon the size of New York's thirst, it may be noted that the entire capacity of the recordbreaking establishment would supply the ordinary consumption of the people of Greater New York and its immediate suburbs for less than two weeks.

The president of the company usually referred to as the Ice Trust, answers the familiar query, "How would you like to be the iceman?" by asserting that you wouldn't like it a bit. According to his plaint the ice business is beset by many difficulties and is conducted at a loss for half the year, while the profits are confined entirely to the four Summer months. Furthermore, he asserts, the fortune of the ice company are in the hands of the men who dispense its products from door to door. If the wagon man knows how to "jolly" the cook he may dispose of ice in large and profitable quantities, but if he is so unfortunate as to offend this family potentate the company is almost certain to lose the patronage of the household altogether. From the tenor of President Oler's remarks, it is evident that the supply of successful "jolliers" is far below the demand in the ice trade. There is a suspicion, however, that in making his remarks the president was setting an example to his men by himself extending a shrewd "jolly" to the public.

Russia is discussing reforms in laws regarding the property and rights of women. Up till now women who have brothers living can inherit only one-fourteenth part of their parents' real estate, and one-eighth of their personal property. Half sisters and girl cousins have no right at all so long as their brothers are living.

It is only in the light of Calvary that we can interpret the fullest significance to our own hearts of this His call. It is reasonable that if He purcahses me, He should have me; it is reasonable that if for me He shed His blood, my life should be yielded to his service, who paid the price! it is my "reasonable service" that if I partake of His gifts, I should put my life under His government.

Self-control is the hardest battle to win. The reformation of others is important, but the reformation of self comes first. It is well to keep in mind the fact that "the best reformers the world has ever had are those who have commenced on themselves." The least effective of all efforts at reform are those that commence on one's neighbors. "He that ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city."

I have such and such work to do, and persons to see, and I have not the strength for it." No, you have not, for you do not need it. Each moment, as yau ned it, the strength will come, only do not look forward an hour; circumstances may be different from waht you expect. At any rate, you will be borne through each needful and right thing "on eagles' wing." Do not worry yourself with misgivings; take each think quietly.

Judge Oleland sets apart every Saturday night as a "reception night" and the prisoners whom he has paroled report to him at his courtroom. On these occasions he gives them advice and encourages tnem to live upright lives.

"Since I began paroling men sentenced by me," said the judge, "724 have had their freedom given them during good behavior. Of this number 20 have broken their word and have been sent to the house of correction to serve out the original sentences. Some of these have been released before the term was up, and have got a second chance. Of the 724 paroled only seven ran away. They were not convicted of grave crimes and the city is well rid of them, but if they return they will be compelled to serve out the suspended sentence hanging over their heads."

In a recent issue of the British Weekly an editorial appeared from which I have taken the following paragraph: "The subject of suicide is hard and gloomy, but too often it compels our thoughts. Men are more merciful to suicides than they were wont to be. They were buried by torchlight, without funeral rites, at the cross-roads, and a stake was driven through the poor body, while all goods and chattels were forfeited. Now the fact of suicide moves us to great compassion. We thing of what tortures the spirit must have passed through ere the last desperate venture was made. We think of the possible overthrow the reason, and we are well content to leave the dead in the hands of the Master and the Judge of souls. But suicide is none the less terrible and fearful—the saddest end beyond comparison to any life, and one which overclouds the most brilliant and lasting achievement."

BLACK RIVER GROUP .....

Rev. E. B. Carr Writes of Work in That Section

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Atkinson, N. C., Aug. 25.—Well, I promised to let our people hear from me again this week about the building of the Presbyterian church at Atkinson, N. C., so let us hear the news. I am always letting the people hear from me, but quite a number never let me hear from them at all on this subject.

The carpenters are making good progress on the building of our church, they will soon be ready to begin covering the church, one load of the shingles came in yesterday; but brethren, we certainly hate to have to stop the carpenters, but it certainly looks like we will have to stop them within the next few days, I am not sure that we have enough money in the treasury to run the carpenters next week. Unless we Presbyterians open up our hearts and our pocketbooks to this work, it will have to stop before we can get it enclosed. Shall a people abounding in wealth and prosperity allow such a thing to happen? Shall a people who live in ceiled houses, and eat the fattest of lambs, and walk on floors laid with the finest of carpets and rugs, who lay on beds of ivory or its equivalent, a people who never knew what it was to be in need of food and clothing, a people who can buy the best of horses and buggies, a people who can and do spend hundreds of dollars at our Summer resorts every year that comes, a people who wear the best of clothes, and if need be, the best of broadcloth, shall such a people, so highly blessed and favoured of God, allow these carpenters to stop the work of the church for lack of a few hundred dollars? I think more of our people than that, I believe you will give us the money, may God's spirit not let you rest until you have done your duty along the line of giving to this work. We expect to hear from all the members of Caswell church, as they ought to be more interested in this work than any one else in this group of churches, but brethren, some of our people are keeping very quiet on this subject; brethren, let me hear from you at once, we need the Lord's money to enclose this church. There are but very few families in this group of churches today but what could buy a nice piano, a nice horse and buggy, or a fine suit of broad-cloth, if they wished to do so, or they could build a fine mansion to live in, if they did not already have one, if they really needed a home to live in, and brethren, you can build this church, if you want to do so. It is not a case of poverty, but a case of volition, a case of loyalty, a case of interest in the Lord's work. If you were really interested in the Lord's work as you ought to be, I would have to send out letters every week to The Star, the Standard, and the Observer, pleading with the people to stop sending in so much money, that the treasure was overrun, my plea would be stop, stop, too much money in the treasure, more money than we know how to spend on the house of the Lord.

My trip up to South river church was a very interesting one, the people were so glad to see me, and I am sure I was glad to see them. I was at a number of homes on this trip. The people all have good crops, and many of them have excellent crops. There are a few sorry crops, and will be until the end of time; but as a rule, the people have good crops. Mr. William and Pinckney Devane have about 40 acres of corn which they think will average about four barrels to the acre. They have a little pig about eight weeks old which will weight about 35 or 40 pounds. In the best season of the year, they get from five to six dozen eggs per day, they seem to have a few chickens on hand. If nothing prevents, they can eat bread, eggs and ham meat another year.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Sprunt Corbett has returned from the hospital, that she is improving very nicely. We rejoice together with her many friends.

Tomahawk is moving on in progress. There is some good news about the possibility of a rural free delivery route going out from Tomahawk, and we hope they will be successful.

Send all money for this church to Rev. E. B. Carr, Atkinson, N. C.

Yours very sincerely,
E. B. CARR.

AN ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

Two Men Probably Fatally Injured in Asheville Building

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 26.—A serious accident occurred at the old Berkley Hotel building, in which two men, a white man and a negro, were badly injured, when the elevator which is being installed in the building fell from the top floor to the sub-basement, a distance of about 45 feet. The white man is a Scotch carpenter named A. Smith an both his legs were broken and crushed. The negro is unknown and he was rendered unconscious by the fall and was unconscious when they were taken to the Mission Hospital. Immediately after the accident they were attended by Drs. Williams and Orr. It is thought that the fall was caused by the slipping of the cable where it was joined to the top of the elevator.

Those who were working near the shaft say that Smith and the negro were both on the floor of the elevator; the sides of which had not been put on. The negro was in the center of the floor while Smith was sitting with his feet hanging over the edge of the floor. The levator was being adjusted. As near as can be ascertained the cable had been fastened to the elevator whre it had ben fastened by a clip and the other end then got loose from the block and tackle. The cable was evidently not held tightly enough by the clip and slipped out. The safety appliances had not been put on.

Smith lives in South Biltmore and has a family. The negro was a laborer picked up on the street. The elevator is being installed by the Moffatt Company, of Charlotte, and at the time of the accident was in an incomplete condition.

NEW GAME LAWS.

Comprehensive Summary of All Enactments in United States.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—A comprehensive summary of the game laws of the United States and Canada, including those enacted during the present year, is set to be issued by Secretary Wilson. The bulletin brings the data relating to game up to date and shows, by States, the new as well as old laws, changes, and modifications of all laws relating to shipment, sales, limits, and licenses.

It is stated that while the 1911 laws exceeded in volume those of any previous year, that was due to changes in the warden service, control of license funds, and to the curtailment of the bag limit rather than to modifying of seasons. Notable modifications in the warden system were made in Delaware, New York, North Dakota, Oregon and Wyoming. Other States also passed laws increasing the warden force. Montana created three; North Dakota two game preserves, while Idaho and Washington added one each to their preserves. Massachusetts and Oregon made permanent arrangements for the creating of future preserves. California, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey and Wisconsin passed laws permitting the possession and disposal of game reared in private preserves. North Carolina joined the list of States prohibiting the exportation of live quail for restocking purposes. New York adopted legislation closing its markets to all but a few foreign species and game raised in captivity.

A novel feature of new legislation was the prohibiting of the belling of dogs or use of other noise-producing devices in wild fowl shooting in Delaware, and the prohibiting by North Dakota of the use of automobiles in duck hunting.

The deer season was shortened from eleven to six days in Colorado, and from 109 to 62 in California, but was lenthened in Michigan, South Carolina, Vermont and Wyoming. Cottontail and bush rabbits were placed on the game list and provided with a season in California. Wild ducks were added to the lists in Delaware and South Carolina; Delaware placed woodcock on the game list; Kansas, squirrels and snipe; Maine, elder ducks; Nebraska, kill-deers and doves, and New Jersey, Hungarian partridges. Much needed protection was given gray and black squirrels by Kansas; wild ducks by Massachusetts; wood ducks by Maine and Vermont; and doves and swans by North Dakota.

Rhode Island shortened its shore bird season; opening October 15th instead of July 15th. Tennessee prohibited the sale of quail and robins. North Carolina revoked the authority of the Audubon Society to issue permits for the exportation of quail. Arkansas, Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hompshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin all made changes in these laws. The total number of new game laws passed in 1911 was about 250.

CHILDREN'S ILLS IN SUMMER

The hardest period of a child's life is during the heated term. It is then that the little men and women become so subject to stomach and bowel troubles. With one it manifests itself in the form of obstinate constipation, with another the very reverse—diarrhea. One is as bad and as dangerous as the other. Constipation makes the child lose appetite and sleep, makes it languid and sickly-looking. Diarrhea weakens it and destroys appetite and energy. Piles, pimples, eruptions, itch, worms, etc., follow in the train until many a mother feels that her child is indeed very ill. But these are all troubles that can be easily cured. The child needs a few doses of a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the grand laxative and tonic. Parents can make no possible mistake by giving it Syrup Pepsin, as the chances are always in favor of the child needing a laxative. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and any druggist can supply you. It cannot be mentioned too strongly that parents should look closely after the welfare of the children during the hot months. If you would like to try it before buying send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE to

WEEK'S NEWS AT LUMBERTON

Aftermath of Veterans' Reunion—The Lenoir Excursion—Town Improvements—Personal and General Items of Interest

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 26.—Our people are still talking about the reunion which was held here Thursday. It is hard to forget an occasion of so much pleasure even if one so desired. Visitors from this and other counties seemed to enjoy themselves and that was the wish of all Lumberton.

The different committees who had charge of the arrangements for the day did their work well. The refreshment committee desires to thank the ladies who so kindly took charge of and arranged the dinner. This part of the day's programme could not have been carried out successfully without their aid. Those who furnished and prepared the dinner, and assisted the committee so much by promptly delivering their donations when called for in the forenoon, did their full share in helping every detail go through without a hitch. In undertakings of this kind where the old soldiers are concerned they can always count on being taken care of when being looked after by our Lumberton ladies. On an occasion like that Thursday can generally be found such Christian ladies as Mesdames N. A. Thompson, F. J. Thomas, J. P. McNeill, R. D. Caldwell, Lizzie Proctor, R. E. Lee, W. P. McAllister, J. H. Wishart, A. T. Parmele, H. C. Freeman, C. B. Redmond, James Williamson, Misses Minnie Lennon, Lillian McIntyre, Laura and Emma Norment, Pennie and Winifred Rowland, Rebecca Ward, Ida McKenzie and others whose names we do not recall. They were all present and if anyone was overlooked in any way it was truly an oversight.

Mr. Giles Davis, one of the leading farmers of this section, brought to town a few days ago a stalk of corn which he pulled from his field that measured 16 feet in height and bore three well developed ears of corn, the first one being 10 1-2 feet from the ground. Mr. Davis is one of those farmers who raises corn and bacon to sell and knows how to treat his neighbors and friends when they happen that way.

Mr. E. A. Harwood, traveling passenger agent of the Seaboard, spent Tuesday in town advertising the big excursion which the Seaboard is going to run from Wilmington to Lenoir next Wednesday. This is going to be a splendid trip. The fare from Lumberton for the round trip is only $5, and passengers can return on any regular train for ten days. A splendid opportunity this to see the beautiful mountain scenery of western North Carolina.

Mr. C. A. Jurgenson, the Wilmington Pepsi-Cola man, spent a day here during the week. Mr. Jurgenson classes Lumberton as one of his best towns, and the reason of it is because he sells the goods, and comes so often that he is really beginning to be regarded as one of the boys and always welcome.

We have been taken to task for making a statement that there was in town a case of scarlet fever and diphtheria. We are told that such things should be kept down, and not allowed to be known. We don't see it that way. Where is the mother that would not try to keep her children away from the dreaded diseases if she knew they were in the community. One physician told us this week of a child who had a genuine case of diphtheria, while another physician stated that there were several cases in the community. The cases are all mild, however, and on uneasiness is felt, but it is best to be careful.

Work on the new building taking the place of the old one for several years occupied by Mr. C. B. Redmond's parlor grocery, is progressing satisfactorily, and when completed will be a great improvement over the old building. The front will be two stories high instead of one as formerly. The second floor will only extend back 15 or 20 feet, and will be occupied by Mr. Q. T. Williams, who has his office on the second floor of the McLeod building. Mr. Williams will then occupy his present front room in connection with the new one instead of having a front and back room as at present in the McLeod building.

A 90-foot well has been driven on the Court House square on the south side of the building, the casing being put down 30 feet. This will supply many people in that section of town as well as many visitors who have to attend courts. The peas which were planted on the square a few days ago are now coming up and in a very short time the yard should be covered with the vines.

An interesting case is expected to come up here at the next term of Superior Court. Several months ago Jas. Locklear, one of Robeson's best Croatan citizens, made a trip to Georgia, riding all the way with white passengers. When he got ready to return home he applied for a ticket at the window provided for white people, but was told that he would have to go around to the colored side. Jim says he told the agent that he was a Cherokee Indian from North Carolina and that his people always occupied the coaches with the white people. The agent would not yield, and Jim, rather than be left or have any disturbance went where the agent told him to and then he was furnished with a ticket. When the train stopped at the next station, Jim says the conductor told him he would have to move into the smoking apartment, but did not require him to go into the car occupied by colored passengers. When he changed cars at Savannah he entered the train and rode on to Lumberton with the white passengers without further trouble. Jim feels that he is entitled to damages and has brought suit against the Seaboard for $10,000, Mr. T. L. Johnson, of this place, and Solicitor Sinclair, of Fayetteville, having been employed by him to fight the case. The Croatans do ride with the white people in this section where they are known, but when they go away from home where they are not known, it's a proposition for the railroad people.

Mr. M. P. Andrews, who has been with Messrs. White & Gough ever since they began business several years ago, has resigned his position and will devote his time to his farming interests.

One hundred and sixty-one tickets were sold here for the 6 o'clock train Thursday evening, most of the passengers being for Maxton who came down to attend the reunion. We are always glad to see our Maxton friends in town, for they always are the salt of the earth.

Beginning Monday night the Empire Musical Comedy Company, vaudeville, will play three nights in connection with the motion picture show. The company comes well recommended as being clean and first-class in every respect. Prices during the engagement will be 10 and 20 cents.

The work of remodeling the defects in the acoustics of the court room in the court house was completed this morning, and the men who were engaged in the work from other places left for their homes this evening. Mr. J. F. Skannel, the expert sent here by the John Manville Company, to have supervision of the work, left this evening for Baltimore. During his stay here Mr. Skannel has made many friends. There seems no doubt now that the trouble of hearing in the court room has been overcome.

The management of Creatore's Band, one of the greatest musical organizations in the world, is trying to arrange to give a matinee in Lumberton, Wednesday, October 11th. The band is composed of 40 musicians, and those who have heard them play say it is grand beyond description. The band plays Wilmington October 10th and Charlotte the 11th. With sufficient encouragement they will give Lumberton a matinee about noon on their way from Wilmington to Charlotte. The manager of the opera house would like an expression from our people at once.

Some person or persons have again taken the job of reducing the dog population in Lumberton, but the manner in which it is being done deserves the condemnation of everyone, possessing any conscience. Poison is being put out and some fine dogs have already been victims. Mr. W. S. Britt has lost a bird dog which he would like to give $25 to find out who is so common as to kill in that way.

The Fall term of Lumberton Graded School will open Monday, Sept. 11th. Supt. Sentelle advises all pupils to review their studies so as to be able to stand the rigid examinations before being classed.

Policeman Sam Strain, who has served Lumberton faithfully for the past year or two, has resigned his position, to accept the position of Chief of Police for Rowland. Lumberton regrets to give him up for he has made a most efficient officer treating all alike, ever fearlessly discharging his duties. We congratulate Rowland upon being so fortunate as to secure his services. Mr. Strain's successor has not been selected and probably will not be for several days.

Mr. C. S. Garrell, manager of the City Market, tells us that on Thursday he filled an order for 75 pounds of choice steak for the Dixie Cafe, cut already for cooking. This is probably the largest order of the kind which has been filled here.

Mr. C. M. Fuller left Thursday for St. Louis, Mo., where he will spend several days buying mules and horses. Mr. Fuller expects two car loads in by the 8th of September

Mr. Olen Edens, salesman for Messrs. White & Gough, left Tuesday for Baltimore for the purpose of having an operation performed for appendicitis——Mr. F. J. Thomas, agent for the Southern Express Company, has been very sick for several days this week, but is again at his post.

Mrs. T. A. McNeill and daughter, Miss Mary, who have been spending some time in the mountains, returned home last night——Messrs. C. M. Prevatt, dealer in mules and horses on Fourth street, and Odell Edens, who conducts a livery business on Chesnut street, have rented the stables near the union passenger station, recently vacated by Mr. C. M. Fuller, and will be ready to serve their friends in their new quarters about the 1st of September. The business will be conducted separately, but there is abundance of room for both.

Whiteville and Lumberton baseball teams played a game here yesterday afternoon. The home team was successful, winning by a score of 10 to 3. The home team has played 16 games this season and has won every game. Wadesboro came nearer cleaning them up Thursday than any other team has. That was a fine bunch of boys who came down from Wadesboro.

Mr. B. M. Davis and daughter, Miss Claude, who spent several weeks with relatives in Virginia, returned home the first of the week——The Truman Quartette and Orchestra delighted a large crowd at the picture show last night.

Of all the beautiful decorations in town Thursday, nothing could touch the display window of McMillan's drug store. It is a thing of beauty. In addition to the regular force of five, extra help was provided and even Mr. McMillan says they had all the business they could handle.

Capt. J. P. Russell, superintendent of the V. C. & S., left yesterday morning for Baltimore to join his family which have been spending several days there with relatives. They will return the first of next week——Mr. Alf H. McLeod with his family and his mother and brother, Mrs. Emily McLeod and Mr. Sandy McLeod, returned Thursday night from Henderson where they had been spending several weeks.

Large Land Purchase by Railroad Man Near Mobile, Ala.—Important Announcements for The Past Week.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, Aug. 26.—Indicative of appreciation in wideawake quarters in the South of the significance of a steady trend of foreign commerce toward the Gulf ports and of a determination to make the most of the opportunities so presented was the conclusion during the past week of the purchase by John T. Cochrane, president of the Alabama, Tennessee & Northern Railroad, of the Tombigbee Valley Railroad and of the Mobile Terminal & Railway companies, for the last named company, of 1,800 acres of land on Blakely Island, opposite the center of Mobile, at a cost between $400,000 and $500,000.

The tract extends about two miles fronting the Mobile river on the West, and it is expected that $1,000,000 will be xpended in terminals and other improvements. Other suggestive announcements of the week were the planning of English and local capitalists to establish at Jacksonville, Fla., a $600,000 mill of 50,000 spindles to manufacture yarns from Sea Island cotton; the purchase by a company of Greensboro, N. SAVING MONEY ON FARM EGGS.

Agricultural Department Making Expert Investigation of Handling.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—Improper and antiquated methods of handling eggs in the United States result in losses that reach an estimated total of $45,000,000 annually. This is 17 per cent. of the estimated total value of the entire crop. Practically all this loss is borne by farmers and other producers, and a large part of it can be prevented. How the Department of Agriculture through its Bureau of Animal Industry is solving this problem is told in Bulletin 141 just issued, entitled, "The Improvement of the Farm Egg."

In order to show how this loss might be prevented, the Bureau of Animal Industry last year sent experts into Kansas to conduct investigations. The results of the first season's work are given in detail in the bulletin, with suggestions for improvement that may be applied anywhere. "Although but one season has been spent by the Bureau in this work," says the bulletin, "several much-desired changes have been brought about. The most important of these was the adoption by shippers of the 'loss-off' system of buying and selling eggs.

Previous to the work of the bureau, Kansas eggs were not very popular in the markets outside the State. Quantity rather than quality was a handicap the shippers encountered. The immediate effect of buying on a "loss-off" system produced such a marked change in the quality of the eggs reaching the market that outside buyers now manifest a preference for eggs bought in this manner.

Copies of the bulletin may be procured by addressing a request to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER, POISON OAK, ETC.

Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Poison Oak, Pimples, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing the circulation, and that a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid is necessary in order to correct the trouble. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomforts caused by skin diseases, but such treatment has no effect on the blood and therefore cannot do any permanent good. Until the humor is removed from the circulation the cuticle will suffer the effects of an acrid irritation. S.S.S. is the best and quickest remedy because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation, and removes every particle of the humor, whether it be an infection of poisonous plants or from other causes, and makes the blood pure, rich and healthy, allowing it to soothe and nourish the skin instead of irritating and inflaming it with acrid humors. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired sent free. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores.
